Reagan beats Ford in Indiana, Georgia

From Herald news services

Ronald Reagan scored a dramatic double victory over President Ford Tuesday in the Indiana and Georgia primaries. He also was expected to win in Alabama, but tabulations were slow in coming in. Democrat Jimmy Carter kept his bandwagon rolling by winning two more primaries.

Reagan, once discounted as a serious challenger for the GOP presidential nomination and under heavy pressure from Republican leaders to get out of the race, beat Ford impressively.

With his victories, Reagan for the first time moved ahead of Ford in the number of pledged delegates. But Ford had a reservoir of unpledged delegates in New York and Pennsylvania who could come to his rescue at the August convention in Kansas City.

The standard-bearer of Republican conservatives added Georgia and apparently Alabama to his string of victories in the "Sun Belt" and for the first time broke through the Mason-Dixon line to win a northern primary in Indiana.

Late Tuesday, with 79 per cent of Indiana's 4,599 precincts reporting, it was:

REPUBLICAN

Candidate	Votes	Per Cent
Reagan	262,149	51
Ford	249,870	49

DEMOCRAT

Candidate	Votes	Per Cent
Carter	324,518	68
Wallace	69,709	15
Jackson	56,879	12
McCormack	25,745	5

Carter, an obscure southerner until he started winning primaries a little more than two months ago, rolled to easy victories in his native Georgia and in Indiana. He was leading in the District of Columbia and threatened to take delegates in George Wallace's home state of Alabama.

Ford's prospects of a quick comeback to stem Reagan's new-found momentum were rated slim. The two challengers meet Tuesday in West Virginia, a border state, and Nebraska, a conservative farm belt area.

In the race for delegates, Carter had won or was leading in 108, for a total so far of 555. Wallace was leading in 19 for a total of 134. Morris Udall was leading in 5 for a total of 180.

On the GOP side, Ford was leading in 12 for a total of 321, Reagan was leading in 112 for a total of 347.

Although Ford conceded defeat in all three primaries through his campaign manager, Rogers Morton, Reagan cautiously declined to claim victory.

But the Californian pointed to his convincing triumph in Indiana as evidence that he was more than a "regional candidate" and said he was sticking to his prediction that neither he nor Ford would go into the convention hall with enough delegates to win.

But Reagan's campaign manager, John Sears, said the victories in Texas, Indiana, Georgia and Alabama made it "more and more obvious that he (Reagan) is the only Republican candidate who can beat Mr. Carter in November."

Morton attributed the defeat partly to a crossover of conservative Demo-

County to review request for ouster of 4 in Dist. 59

by JUDY JOBBITT

The county schools uperintendent's office, which has the power to investigate and remove school board members, will review an Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 board member's request that two fellow board members and two administrators resign from office.

Board member Paul Kucharski of Arlington Heights said Tuesday the county office received his statement which asks for the resignation of board members Judith Zanca and Emil Bahnmaier, Supt. Roger Bardwell and Leah Cummins, public relations director.

"I asked if they had received the report. They said they had and would review it," he said. Kucharski said he talked with Frank Bristow, an assistant attorney in the county schools superintendent's office.

Bristow could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

KUCHARSKI PRESENTED his statement at the board meeting Monday. He said he called for the resignations because of the board members' and administrators' role in the Dist. 59 unit school district movement.

Bahnmaier, Mrs. Zanca and Mrs. Cummins are members of the committee of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed petitions April 26 with the county office requesting an election be held to form a Dist. 59 unit district.

Kucharski charged the four district officials with withholding information and misrepresenting facts.

Kucharski said he and other board members were misled about the progress of the unit district petitioning during an executive session held April 26 when hiring the legal firm Reid, Ochsenschlager, Murphy and Hupp was discussed. The board voted to hire the firm for advice on pursuing the unit district at the April 26 board meeting.

KUCHARSKI SAID he learned the petitions were filed April 28 after reading about it in local newspapers. He said when he asked Mrs. Cummins why board members were not informed about the filing he was told it had to be done "in complete secrecy."

He said he also was upset to learn that Mrs. Cummins and Mrs. Zanca discussed the unit district with the law firm and had employed the firm to draw up the petitions before the April 26 meeting.

Mrs. Zanca said she did "nothing illegally. I went to interview the law firm involved. I said I could make no commitment until the board acts

Bank's service offices violate state laws: suit

Ten recently opened community service offices of the First National Bank of Chicago, including one in Arlington Heights, are in violation of state and federal laws governing "branch banking" and should be closed, according to a suit filed in U.S. District Court.

The suit is being brought by the Independent Community Banks in Illinois, an organization of 246 banks throughout the state. Robert Wingert, the group's executive director, said the services offered at the First National's community offices qualify them as "branch banks," prohibited in Illinois.

The First National Bank offices are each staffed with two employes and a cash-dispensing machine enabling customers to make withdrawals from their checking and savings accounts.

THE EMPLOYES of the branch can provide account information and take applications for loans and new accounts, said a First National Bank spokesman.

The spokesman, reading from a prepared statement, said the suit will be answered in "due course" and that the allegations of branch banking by the First National are "without foundation."

The manager of the Arlington Heights office referred all questions to the main bank.

The offices were opened in early April in five Chicago neighborhoods and five suburbs. The Arlington

Jack Frost damage not yet known

Back yard gardeners may not know for several days whether their plants were damaged by Monday night's unseasonably cold temperatures, a University of Illinois horticulturalist said Tuesday.

The extent of the frost kill, if any, will determine what steps can be taken to rejuvenate the young plants.

"The tender vegetables are the most vulnerable — tomatoes, peppers and flowering plants," said James A. Fizzell, horticulturalist with the University of Illinois Extension Service in Rolling Meadows. "Hearty vegetables — cabbage, lettuce, radishes, onions and carrots — probably weren't bothered."

If the frost nipped only some leaves, they will drop off and new leaves will form at the bud. But if the plants die back farther, they may have to be replanted, Fizzell said.

Monday night's frost was widely scattered and temperatures were lowest in low-lying areas, the National Weather Service reported Tuesday. Nowhere in the area did temperatures reach the low 20's that had been predicted.

DuPage County Airport had a low temperature of 33 degrees and a 35 degree reading was measured at Midway Airport.

"Frost was nonexistent as far away as Woodstock in high areas," Fizzell said.

Commercial growers took steps to keep their early crops warm and do not appear to have suffered from the chill, he said. Bell's apple orchard in Lake Curich used smudge pots and a helicopter to keep warm air circulating. A large strawberry grower in Woodstock used his irrigation system to put a thin coat of water between his plants and the cold.

Warmer and wet is the way the weather service summed up its forecast for the rest of the week.

County to study plea to oust 4 officials

Officials in Cook County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick's office Tuesday said they will review an Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education member's request calling for the resignation of four district officials. Board member Paul Kucharski of Arlington Heights said Tuesday county officials told him they will study his request that board members Judith Zanca and Emil Bahnmaier resign along with Supt. Ralph Bardwell and Leah Cummins, public relations director. Kucharski has accused the four officials of withholding information and misrepresenting facts on the unit school district issue. The four officials Tuesday each denied any wrongdoing in connection with the district's consideration of a unit school district. The county schools superintendent has the power to dismiss board of education members.

Reopen talks: Dist. 57 teachers

Teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will present a proposal May 17 to the board of education requesting negotiations resume to determine which topics will be covered in contract bargaining. Negotiations between the teachers and board are at a standstill because teachers want to include procedures for reducing teaching staff as part of contract negotiations. The board of education has said reduction in force is a nonnegotiable item. Board negotiators and officials of the Mount Prospect Education Assn., which represents teachers, have agreed to include salaries, fringe benefits, leaves of absence, grievance procedures and negotiation procedures in contract talks.

Suit filed to close bank's offices

An organization representing 246 banks in Illinois Tuesday charged in federal district court that recently opened community service offices of the First National Bank of Chicago are in violation of state and federal laws governing branch banking and should be closed. The Independent Community Banks in Illinois has filed suit in U. S. District Court. Robert Wingert, the organization's executive director, said the services offered at the First National's community offices, including one in Arlington Heights, qualify them as branch banks which are prohibited in Illinois. The offices were opened last month in five Chicago locations and five suburbs. Wingert said the offices, which are each staffed by two employes and a cash dispensing machine enabling customers to make withdrawals from checking and savings accounts, violate branch banking acts by generating loans to customers who take applications. A First National spokesman said the suit was "without foundation."

UPS talks continue here

The Teamsters' Union will continue negotiations today with United Parcel Service at the Arlington Park Hilton, Arlington Heights, in an effort to end a three-day-old strike against the firm. A company spokesman said there had been "progress on economic issues and working conditions" but did not say when he expected the talks to end. "Even if there were a settlement, it would be sometime before things move again." About 2,500 Teamsters in Illinois and Indiana have continued to work despite the decision by locals representing 13,000 drivers in 12 other Midwest states to stop working after their contract expired last Friday.

'76 wagon train arrives today

The Bicentennial wagon train will roll into the Northwest suburbs today with about 30 Conestoga wagons and 20 horsemen for a day of festivities before resuming its eastward journey to Valley Forge, Pa.

The wagon train is scheduled to leave the Lake County Fair Grounds near Grayslake about 7 a.m. and arrive at Arlington Park Race Track between 3:30 and 4 p.m. The wagons and members of the party will camp for the night on the race track property.

The wagons, entering the race track through Gate 1 on Wilke Road, will be met by the Hersey High School marching band. A mock Indian raid will strike the wagon train.

THE WAGONS WILL be on display to the public from 4:30 until 7 p.m. A pioneer-style dinner will be available during this time at a cost of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The Forest View jazz band will open the evening's free entertainment at 7 p.m. followed by a concert by Chivaree, a singing group from the Old Town School of Folk Music. They will be followed by a horse pageant and songs by the Arlingtones, an Arlington Heights barbershop chorus.

A theater troupe from the University of Pennsylvania will present a performance after the wagon master receives scrolls signed by local officials and residents.

The evening's activities will conclude with a free square dance with lessons and callers provided by the Metropolitan Square Dance Assn. of Chicago.

THE WAGON TRAIN will enter the area by North Arlington Heights Road to Dundee Road west to Kennicott Avenue. The train will go south on Kennicott Avenue to the Palatine Road frontage road. They will follow the frontage road to Wilke Road and from there south to Gate One of the race track.

The train will leave the race track Thursday morning about 7 a.m. on Illinois Avenue through Palatine past Fremd High School to Roselle Road. Following Roselle Road south, the train will go to Bloomingdale Road.

The wagon train is being brought to the area through the cooperation of Arlington Park Race Track and the Arlington Heights and Illinois Bicentennial commissions.

An organization representing 246 banks in Illinois Tuesday charged in federal district court that recently opened community service offices of the First National Bank of Chicago are in violation of state and federal laws governing branch banking and should be closed. The Independent Community Banks in Illinois has filed suit in U. S. District Court. Robert Wingert, the organization's executive director, said the services offered at the First National's community offices, including one in Arlington Heights, qualify them as branch banks which are prohibited in Illinois. The offices were opened last month in five Chicago locations and five suburbs. Wingert said the offices, which are each staffed by two employes and a cash dispensing machine enabling customers to make withdrawals from checking and savings accounts, violate branch banking acts by generating loans to customers who take applications. A First National spokesman said the suit was "without foundation."

UPS talks continue here

The Teamsters' Union will continue negotiations today with United Parcel Service at the Arlington Park Hilton, Arlington Heights, in an effort to end a three-day-old strike against the firm. A company spokesman said there had been "progress on economic issues and working conditions" but did not say when he expected the talks to end. "Even if there were a settlement, it would be sometime before things move again." About 2,500 Teamsters in Illinois and Indiana have continued to work despite the decision by locals representing 13,000 drivers in 12 other Midwest states to stop working after their contract expired last Friday.

The Bicentennial wagon train will roll into the Northwest suburbs today with about 30 Conestoga wagons and 20 horsemen for a day of festivities before resuming its eastward journey to Valley Forge, Pa.

The wagon train is scheduled to leave the Lake County Fair Grounds near Grayslake about 7 a.m. and arrive at Arlington Park Race Track between 3:30 and 4 p.m. The wagons and members of the party will camp for the night on the race track property.

The wagons, entering the race track through Gate 1 on Wilke Road, will be met by the Hersey High School marching band. A mock Indian raid will strike the wagon train.

THE WAGONS WILL be on display to the public from 4:30 until 7 p.m. A pioneer-style dinner will be available during this time at a cost of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The Forest View jazz band will open the evening's free entertainment at 7 p.m. followed by a concert by Chivaree, a singing group from the Old Town School of Folk Music. They will be followed by a horse pageant and songs by the Arlingtones, an Arlington Heights barbershop chorus.

A theater troupe from the University of Pennsylvania will present a performance after the wagon master receives scrolls signed by local officials and residents.

The evening's activities will conclude with a free square dance with lessons and callers provided by the Metropolitan Square Dance Assn. of Chicago.

THE WAGON TRAIN will enter the area by North Arlington Heights Road to Dundee Road west to Kennicott Avenue. The train will go south on Kennicott Avenue to the Palatine Road frontage road. They will follow the frontage road to Wilke Road and from there south to Gate One of the race track.

The train will leave the race track Thursday morning about 7 a.m. on Illinois Avenue through Palatine past Fremd High School to Roselle Road. Following Roselle Road south, the train will go to Bloomingdale Road.

The wagon train is being brought to the area through the cooperation of Arlington Park Race Track and the Arlington Heights and Illinois Bicentennial commissions.

Kissinger rises early, but...

Tyler would rather sleep

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger rises every morning at 6 o'clock, but his dog Tyler does not.

Therein lies the secretary of state's trouble.

Russia, China, the Middle East and the sayings of Ronald Reagan and Sen. Henry Jackson may rupture Kissinger's mood occasionally, but his woes with Tyler are an everyday thing.

This is not to say Kissinger dislikes his golden labrador retriever. Friends say the secretary has developed a master's doting fondness for the dog.

They report that until Tyler came along, Kissinger would rise at 6 a.m. and gallop off from his Georgetown house. But these days Kissinger must not leave the house until the dog has been roused and fed.

And Tyler apparently is a slugabed. Kissinger, who has a maid in now and then but no live-in servants, feels he cannot just let sleeping dogs lie and go off to the State Department.

Tyler would rather sleep until 9 a.m. So the secretary of state must call, nudge, poke gently, tickle, pat and finally hoist the dog to its feet, feed him and see to the dog's toilet before joining his Secret Service escort for the drive to work.

The dog mornings are but one result of Tyler's coming. Mrs. Kissinger gave the dog to Kissinger as a birthday present.

This surprised some Kissinger friends, who never figured him for a dog man. Indeed, the secretary shows his unfamilarity with the geopolitics of dogdom in his first dealings with Tyler.

Other masters might pat a dog's head or stroke his back. Kissinger was observed bending over and, with the flats of both hands, patting the dog's sides.

Possibly at first to please his wife, Kissinger progressed. It was a trial. Asked by friends what a man with his German-Jewish background was doing with a dog named Tyler, Kissinger said, "It is one of my wife's WASP jokes."

There were signs of growing affection for Tyler. During one trip overseas a year ago, fellow travelers noted Kissinger was suddenly distracted from matters of state. It turned out that a cable from Washington reported Tyler had swallowed a shoelace.

It seems the Kissinger dog also chewed up lamp and curtain cords. This did not turn off the secretary. In fact, Tyler ate better and better.

Dogs are said to develop like their masters. The once-sleek Tyler's middle began to bulge. Perhaps for both their sakes, Kissinger has started walking Tyler around the block at night, trailed by his Secret Service bod-

At latest report, Kissinger has only one complaint. He explained that Tyler has gotten permission to join him and his wife in bed.

"That isn't so bad," Kissinger said, "except that he tries to push me out of the bed."

Tyler and Nancy Kissinger take a stroll and practice "stay" command.

Measure restoring FEC's funding powers to Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate gave final congressional approval Tuesday to a bill that would enable the Federal Election Commission to resume disbursal of funds to presidential candidates.

The Senate vote on the long-delayed campaign reform law was 62 to 29, one more than the two-thirds margin which would be needed to override a veto if President Ford rejects the bill.

The House approved the measure Monday by 291 to 81, or 43 more than the two-thirds required for any veto override.

Ford objects to provisions that reduce the decision-making independence of the FEC and give Congress greater control over it, and has refused to say whether he will sign of veto the bill.

Even if he signs quickly, however, candidates' hopes for quick release of frozen FEC campaign funds ran into a snag when chairman Thomas Curtis told Ford he does not want to be part of the new, weakened commission.

Curtis' decision means that even if Ford signs the bill as early as Wednesday, he would have to find a replacement for Curtis when he reappoints the commissioners. The Senate probably would want to hold hearings before confirming the appointee, a process which might delay resumption of the FEC's disbursement powers for another week or so.

"If this bill became law," Curtis told UPI, "my judgment would be that the commission is no longer independent and I would not want my name to be resubmitted."

The Supreme Court ruled earlier this year that the FEC had been constituted illegally because not all its six members had been appointed by the President. It suspended the FEC's powers to dole out matching campaign funds in March while Congress worked out a bill that remedied the basic defect and made some other major changes in the FEC's powers as well.

Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., echoed Curtis' objections in the closing Senate debate and said he doubted the matching campaign funds withheld from presidential candidates had been crucial to any of the primary outcomes so far.

"In effect, this bill makes the commission a subcommittee of Congress," Brock said. "It virtually helps maintain monopoly of incumbents in this Congress," and "puts the commission under the thumb of Congress forever."

Ford is the onls presidential candidate with a healthy war chest. Seven other leading presidential candidates unsuccessfully asked the courts to release the $2.4 million earmarked for them in the blocked FEC matching funds. At least two Democrats have quit active campaigning since the March 23 cutoff of the FEC's disbursement powers.

The new bill, while meeting the Supreme Court's requirement for presidential appointment of commissions, also would allow either house of Congress to veto the FEC's more general election law decisions and would reduce some of its other powers.

It also changes the law governing campaign contributions and expenditures.

Raging battle for Beirut cools to sporadic shooting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — U.S. special envoy L. Dean Brown Tuesday persuaded warring Moslems and Christians to ban heavy artillery, and a raging four-day battle for control of Beirut port dwindled to sporadic gunfights within hours.

Fighting died down at night shortly after a meeting of the Syrian-Palestinian-Lebanese truce commission endorsed Brown's proposal to stop using heavy weapons — including 155mm artillery and 120mm mortars.

Some units of the Palestine Liberation Army (PLA) moved into the port area to try to separate Moslem leftists and rightist Christians who had fought a door-to-door battle which threatened to scuttle the presidential elections.

Brown, stepping up his mediation forts in the face of possible collapse of peace initiatives, met with Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt to present the heavy weapons ban proposal. Jumblatt sid he "accepted the proposal and Brown will take up the same matter with the other side."

Jumblatt had earlier issued an ultimatum for Syria to withdraw all its troops from Lebanon before parliament's scheduled session Saturday to elect a successor to President Suleiman Franjieh or "the election of a new president will not happen soon."

Jumblatt also said that Brown assured the Moslem leftists "that the United States is not interfering in Lebanon's presidential elections and that Washington does not have a specific candidate."

The ebb in the fighting followed a day in which both Moslem leftists and Christians slammed mortars into residential areas. Two shells exploded on runways at Beirut airport, causing moderate damage.

Witnesses in the port area said Moslem troops, advancing behind a sheet of machine gun and artillery fire, gained 100 yeards into the Christian-held positions. They said the Christian defenders battled Moslems house-to-house, tenaciously trying to hold the final positions in front of their headquarters.

The witnesses said the waterfront fighting centered around the 10-story Fattal building, the last Christian outpost before the Phalangist party headquarters.

The combat, coupled with a hail of shells on nearby residential areas, claimed 90 dead and 120 wounded.

Reagan wins over Ford in two primaries crats who deserted their party to vote for Reagan.

"We are finding out that the crossover states are a problem for us," he said, adding he would have to take a "very hard look" at the problem in the future.

Morton acknowledged he expected Ford to do better in Indiana, but he said the President had expected to take "some lumps in May."

Reagan, who urged Democrats to join his conservative crusade, apparently won some converts, as he did in Texas. A New York Times-CBS survey showed that about one-third of those voting in Indiana's Republican primary were Democrats or independents.

But Reagan also picked up momentum from his Texas victory which carried over into Indiana, where Ford only a week ago held a substantial edge. Ford had conceded Alabama and Georgia in advance.

Carter, the undisputed front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, faced virtually no opposition in sweeping Georgia and Indiana.

He was opposed by Wallace in both states but the Alabama governor's popularity has been dissipated by a string of defeats.

Radical states want Israel out of U. N.

Radical Arab states have launched a bid to expel Israel and South Africa and seat the Palestine Liberation Organization at the U.N. conference on Trade and Development, Western delegation sources said Tuesday. The sources said the Arab states, which they did not name, have circulated a resolution to this effect among the socalled Group of 77, actually composed of 110 developing nations. "The resolution does not have the endorsement of the Group of 77 and it appears doubtful they will endorse it," one source said.

Kissinger: U. S. offering best for poor

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said in Nairobi Tuesday the United States is prepared to offer the best proposals it can to give the world's poorer nations a better economic deal. "We have gone to the limits of our domestic possibilities in the proposals the United States will make," Kissinger said, referring to a speech he is scheduled to deliver Thursday before the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development. Kissinger did not specify what the U.S. proposals will be, but the Thursday speech was expected to announce Washington's positon on closing the economic gap between poor and rich nations.

Pilot tells of Massacre in Cambodia

A Cambodian pilot who defected to communism three years ago then opted for freedom in Thailand said Tuesday there was a massacre in Cambodia after the communists took over. Lt. Pech Lim Kuon told reporters, with Thai police looking on, that "perhaps" up to half a million people have been killed since the Khmer Rouge took over. "The streets of Phnom Penh (were) littered with corpses that day," he said of April 17, 1975, the day the Communists took over the Cambodian capital.

Food stamp plan could cut off 5 million

The Agriculture Department Tuesday announced adoption of new regulations designed to oust at least 5 million Americans from the food stamp program by tightening eligibility standards. Department officials said while nearly 10 million persons would either be dropped from the program or suffer benefit cuts, nearly 5 million of the neediest participants would get increased benefits. Under the new regulations, stamp aid will be banned to "working poor" families of four with take-home pay of $6,700 a year or more.

More relatives enter Hughes legal arena

More relatives entered the legal arena Tuesday for an expected battle over a purported Howard Hughes will — all looking for a share of the $2.5 billion estate the recluse left when he died April 5. Three more Hughes cousins on his father's side of the family filed a petition of interest in Los Angeles County Superior Court. Eleven other relatives were expected to file in Las Vegas.

House votes override of day care bill

The House Tuesday voted by a nearly 3-1 margin to override President Ford's veto of a child day care center bill. The Senate, which takes up the veto Wednesday, was also expected to beat it. The measure would provide $125 million for centers across the nation which qualify for federal aid through enrollment of poverty level children.

Report to ask new county taxes, office reductions

by WANDALYN RICE

The Cook County Home-Rule Study Committee report, which will recommend new taxes and elimination of some elected county offices, will be completed by June 1 and released by July 1, The Herald has learned.

The report, which will be two years overdue May 31, is ready for a final draft and final approval by the 16-member home-rule study committee, according to county officials.

The report rejects the idea of a county income tax, according to committee members, but will contain recommendations for other special county taxes similar to the county liquor tax, which was approved last year.

THE LIQUOR TAX IDEA originally was proposed by the home-rule committee, but was selected by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne for adoption before completion of the full report because of the county's money crunch last fall.

Committee members refused to give details of the tax proposals, except to say the report will not recommend an income tax. Shirley Keller, board member of the League of Women Voters and chairman of the committee's finance subcommittee, said, however, "I don't think anyone will have to fear they will be overrun with new taxes."

Another part of the report, according to committee members, will propose eliminating the office of county treasurer as an elected post and the creation of a tax administration office responsible to the county board president.

The new office would assume the tax billing and collection functions now performed by the county treasurer, county collector and county clerk, but would leave the post of county assessor unchanged.

AN EARLIER PROPOSAL by the committee to make the assessor's post appointed and under the tax administration office was shelved by the committee in a "close vote," according to officials.

The proposal on the assessor's office was reportedly the subject of internal wrangling in the Cook County Democratic Party because the assessor's post has traditionally been a party power-center, something it would not be if it were not elected.

Another proposal in the report will be a suggestion that the county enter into cooperative agreements with suburban municipalities. This way, the suburbs could provide service to unincorporated areas, according to Samuel Witwer, chairman of the inter-governmental relations subcommittee.

The cooperative agreements could give villages and cities some authority over liquor licenses or police protection in unincorporated areas in return for the county performing services for the local government, Witwer said.

WITWER SAID THE LAST meetings of the committee were in late 1975, and that since then committee members have been waiting for Terrence Hansen, an administrative assistant in the budget department, to complete the final draft.

Hansen, who also has been in charge of the county's Community Development Program, said Tuesday he plans to complete the draft within the next few weeks.

Witwer said he does not believe the long delay in completion of the study has been due to political in-fighting, something that has been continually reported around the county.

Reports had indicated that the completion of the report was being deliberately delayed because of the internal Democratic Party disputes involving elimination of elected offices and a reluctance to release new tax proposals.

Witwer said the problem encountered by the committee was that it did not have a budget or staff, and that Hansen was constantly called away from the committee business on other, more urgent, county projects.

Witwer said, "I've run into nothing that would lead me to believe there was any political motivation for the delay."

$20,000 cement bill bribe revealed

With several ex-friends staring at him, former State Rep. Pete Pappas testified Tuesday that he and they sought "20,000 for each house" of the Illinois legislature in return for passage of a bill the cement industry desired.

Pappas, a Rock Island Republican, testified for the prosecution in the trial of a lawyer, a businessman and six of his former colleagues, whom he referred to by such names as "Kenny" and "Bob."

"Bob" (state Rep. Robert Craig, D-Danville) sat as close as he could get to the witness stand, staring at Pappas intently.

"Kenny" (state Sen. Kenneth Course, D-Chicago) also was in the front of the federal courtroom, along with former state Rep. Frank North, R-Rockford, whom Pappas described as his inseparable companion during their Springfield days.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to take bribes from the cement industry in connection with a bill increasing the weight load limits ready-mix cement trucks can legally carry on Illinois roadways.

Pappas said the bribe scheme was proposed to him in late 1971 by Peter V. Pappas (no relation), a transportation expert who then functioned as a legislative liaison for the secretary of state's office.

"Peter V. told me he talked with the ready-mix people and he thought he could get us some money for passage of the ready-mix legislation," Pete Pappas said.

"I asked Bob (Craig) if he had any figures as to how much (money) it would take," to get the cement bill passed, Pappas said.

"He said he thought he could get it through his side (the Democratic side of the House) for ten ($10,000)."

Pete Pappas said Carpentier and Course thought that was a fair amount, so it was decided the legislators would ask $10,000 for the House and $20,000 for the Senate. Pappas said he then took the demand back to Peter V. Pappas.

The cement bill passed both houses of the legislature in the spring of 1972, but was vetoed by then Gov.Richard B . Ogilvie in August that year.

Love city or leave it: Daley

Mayor Richard J. Daley says if city workers don't think Chicago is "good enough to live in" then they ought to find other jobs.

Daley Tuesday gave city employes who live in the suburbs until Aug. 1 to move back into Chicago or lose their jobs.

"If the city wasn't good enough to live in, then I don't think I'd want to work for it," the mayor told a news conference.

Daley said all 40,000 city employes will be required to sign residency forms saying they understand they can be fired if they falsify their addresses.

Hughes' will phony: expert

A handwriting expert said in Chicago Tuesday the document purported to be the will of Howard Hughes is a forgery, and not a very good one at that.

Nicholas R. Burczyk, a Lansing, Ill., graphologist, told reporters he had compared the handwriting of the late Hughes with that in the will which showed up in the offices of the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City last week.

"The handwriting is so undisciplined I think it was not a real stable person who did the forgery," Burczyk said. "It almost looks like it was an intentional ruse on the individual because the forgery is no good . . ."

Walker sees Dem victories

Gov. Daniel Walker said Tuesday the Democrats should win the election this year but pointedly stopped short of endorsing his Democratic primary foe Michael Howlett. Addressing a Kiwanis Club meeting in Elgin, Walker said he felt this would be a Democratic year both nationally and in Illinois.

Parents rap unit district petitions

Parents Monday protested the way the unit school district petitioning was conducted in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, saying they were not receiving all the necessary information and disliked the involvement of two board members.

The parents, among a crowd of more than 250 persons at Monday's board of education meeting, questioned the manner in which the unit district petitions were filed. Last week a committee of 10 residents filed petitions requesting an election to decide whether the Dist. 59 area should consolidate into a unit district with one school board and administration governing elementary and high schools.

The committee of 10 residents is the legal body required to begin the process of presenting the issue to the voters. The committee in Dist. 59 includes two board members and two Dist. 59 administrators.

"THE COMMITTEE OF 10 isn't exactly a citizens' group," said Jack Roeser of Arlington Heights. "There's been a lot of input from the board and administration."

He said he is not against the unit district concept "but against this one per se. Dist. 59 has had a bad record financially despite its good tax base. And now it looks like it's going to do a dirty trick to (High School) Dist. 214."

The proposed unit district would include Forest View and Elk Grove high schools in addition to the Dist. 59 schools. Currently, Dist. 59 supplies about 50 per cent of Dist. 214's tax base but only about 27 per cent of the students.

"I don't think the issue tonight is whether the unit district is good or bad for us but the manner in which the petitions were submitted. It seemed underhanded," said Carol Wirth of Elk Grove Village. "We're tired of hearing you want open communications and on the other hand shut us off."

EDWARD KENNA, AN Elk Grove Village trustee, said, "The public cannot make a decision when people do things in a clandestine manner. I think you (the committee of 10 residents) have questions to answer as a group."

Kenna said he questioned whether the voters would get the necessary information to make an intelligent decision on the unit district question.

Nancy Clark of Arlington Heights presented the board with petitions signed by more than 1,500 parents protesting the way the unit district petitions were filed. She said parents "are concerned with the handling of the study and filing of the petitions and not which school our students would attend."

Jan Schultz of Mount Prospect said she supports the unit district movement because she "hopes many more children in future years could attend schools as fine as we now have. I feel the unit district would be beneficial to everyone concerned."

Board member Barbara Somogyi said she has "always been a supporter of taking the issue to the people. Maybe now is the time to put it in the hands of the people. It's the obligation of this board to put it to rest and never bring it up again."

Board member Avis Wold said the board cannot make any decision concerning reorganization into a unit district, but she supports presenting the issue to the people through an election.

which is a procedure many board members have done in the past to hire architects, consultants and attorneys."

She said the work done by the firm before the April 26 meeting was done "for free." William Murphy, a partner in the law firm, confirmed the work done prior to being hired by the board was done at no charge.

SHE SAID SHE also was not asked about the filing of the petitions by Kucharski and had agreed with the other committee members to "make no official public statement until Wednesday (April 28)" about the filing.

Mrs. Cummins also said, "There was nothing wrong with what we did. Everything was done legally and justifiably."

Kucharski also charged that Bahnmaier had lost or refused to allow others to listen to tape recordings of the unit district study committee meetings. Bahnmaier was secretary of the committee that investigated the possibility and supported pursuing a Dist. 59 unit district.

Bahnmaier Tuesday said the charges were "unfounded. I did not consider the tapes as part of the official record. The official record was the minutes." He said the minutes were corrected as indicated by committee members.

KUCHARSKI ALSO charged that a "deal" was made between Centex Industrial Park representatives, board members and Dist. 59 administrators to get the business community's support in last fall's tax rate referendum.

He said the "deal" included lowering the tax rate increase referendum below the original 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation proposal and having the district support a study "in favor of a unit district." The voters approved a 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation referendum last fall which was not opposed by the businessmen.

Bahnmaier said, "I have not had any conversations with anyone in the industrial park on any deal or arrangement whatever."

MRS. ZANCA SAID, "There was no deal made. The reason we went for 25 cents was we knew we couldn't pass the 40 cents."

Mrs. Cummins said she also knows of "no deal." "I cannot account for any such statement," she said. "It's his (Kucharski's) word against the people I trust."

Stanley Klyber, executive director of the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce, said Tuesday, "To the best of my knowledge, there was no meeting with the executive board of Dist. 59" concerning the unit district study or referendum. He said he was "not aware" of any "deal" being made.

Bank's service offices violate state laws: suit

Heights office is located in the Evergreen Plaza Shopping Center. Other suburban offices are in Calumet City, Cicero, Deerfield and Naperville.

Wingert said the offices violate the branch banking acts by "generating loans" to customers.

"THE ILLINOIS laws are very explicit. the main bank can have only one off-site facility and that can't generate loans. The off-site facility has to be within 1,500 feet of the main bank," Wingert said.

He said the First National's assertion that the offices are meant to provide banking services to a broader area are contradicted by the site selections.

"The First National did not put any of their offices into bankless communities. It's a perfect example of redlining," he said.

He said the First National's motivation was to "increase deposits and profitability" more than to increase customer services.

WINGERT SAID the year-old independent bank organization has concentrated its efforts in the past as a lobbying organization representing the interests of its 246 "primarily downstate" member banks. He said the legal action against the First National is the first his group has undertaken.

He said his organization would continue to fight the establishment of branch banking in Illinois. He said large banks engaged in branching are not as responsive as locally owned banks to local needs.

Jan Schultz of Mount Prospect said she supports the unit district movement because she "hopes many more children in future years could attend schools as fine as we now have. I feel the unit district would be beneficial to everyone concerned."

Board member Barbara Somogyi said she has "always been a supporter of taking the issue to the people. Maybe now is the time to put it in the hands of the people. It's the obligation of this board to put it to rest and never bring it up again."

Board member Avis Wold said the board cannot make any decision concerning reorganization into a unit district, but she supports presenting the issue to the people through an election.

which is a procedure many board members have done in the past to hire architects, consultants and attorneys."

She said the work done by the firm before the April 26 meeting was done "for free." William Murphy, a partner in the law firm, confirmed the work done prior to being hired by the board was done at no charge.

SHE SAID SHE also was not asked about the filing of the petitions by Kucharski and had agreed with the other committee members to "make no official public statement until Wednesday (April 28)" about the filing.

Mrs. Cummins also said, "There was nothing wrong with what we did. Everything was done legally and justifiably."

Kucharski also charged that Bahnmaier had lost or refused to allow others to listen to tape recordings of the unit district study committee meetings. Bahnmaier was secretary of the committee that investigated the possibility and supported pursuing a Dist. 59 unit district.

Bahnmaier Tuesday said the charges were "unfounded. I did not consider the tapes as part of the official record. The official record was the minutes." He said the minutes were corrected as indicated by committee members.

KUCHARSKI ALSO charged that a "deal" was made between Centex Industrial Park representatives, board members and Dist. 59 administrators to get the business community's support in last fall's tax rate referendum.

He said the "deal" included lowering the tax rate increase referendum below the original 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation proposal and having the district support a study "in favor of a unit district." The voters approved a 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation referendum last fall which was not opposed by the businessmen.

Bahnmaier said, "I have not had any conversations with anyone in the industrial park on any deal or arrangement whatever."

MRS. ZANCA SAID, "There was no deal made. The reason we went for 25 cents was we knew we couldn't pass the 40 cents."

Mrs. Cummins said she also knows of "no deal." "I cannot account for any such statement," she said. "It's his (Kucharski's) word against the people I trust."

Stanley Klyber, executive director of the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce, said Tuesday, "To the best of my knowledge, there was no meeting with the executive board of Dist. 59" concerning the unit district study or referendum. He said he was "not aware" of any "deal" being made.

Heights office is located in the Evergreen Plaza Shopping Center. Other suburban offices are in Calumet City, Cicero, Deerfield and Naperville.

Wingert said the offices violate the branch banking acts by "generating loans" to customers.

"THE ILLINOIS laws are very explicit. the main bank can have only one off-site facility and that can't generate loans. The off-site facility has to be within 1,500 feet of the main bank," Wingert said.

He said the First National's assertion that the offices are meant to provide banking services to a broader area are contradicted by the site selections.

"The First National did not put any of their offices into bankless communities. It's a perfect example of redlining," he said.

He said the First National's motivation was to "increase deposits and profitability" more than to increase customer services.

WINGERT SAID the year-old independent bank organization has concentrated its efforts in the past as a lobbying organization representing the interests of its 246 "primarily downstate" member banks. He said the legal action against the First National is the first his group has undertaken.

He said his organization would continue to fight the establishment of branch banking in Illinois. He said large banks engaged in branching are not as responsive as locally owned banks to local needs.

House unit backs school tax bills

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Illinois House Elementary and Secondary Education Committee Tuesday voted to permit debate this session on measures that would allow Illinois school districts to increase their tax rates above the current ceilings.

The committe voted to sponsor two bills on the subject. They now go to the House and then back to committee for more consideration. Without committee sponsorship, it was not likely the bills would be heard this session.

One of the bills (H3509), sponsored by Rep. Arthur Berman, D-Chicago, would eliminate local tax rollbacks in school districts which have higher-than-average tax bases. The measure passed by a vote of 20-1.

IT WOULD ALLOW those districts, through a direct referendum, to levy at levels which its citizens have allowed, but which are above the present maximum operating tax rate limits of 3 per cent for unit districts, 1.95 per cent for elementary and 1.05 per cent for high school districts.

Berman said the measure would not affect the districts' entitlement to state aid. He said the bill probably would have its greatest effect in the wealthier Chicago suburban school districts.

The committee defeated an attempt by Rep. Michael McClain, D-Quincy, to permit a school district to include its transportation costs in figures used to compute its share of state aid.

Berman warned that the $20 million in state money available last year to pay for the added transportaton costs "is no longer there. What you are saying," Berman told McClain, "is to ring the death knell on this bill."

BERMAN SAID his measure allows school districts to tax without bothering state money. Adding McClain's amendment, he said, was to invite a veto from Gov. Daniel Walker.

A spokesman for the Taxpayers Federation called the Berman measure "piecemeal" and said legislation should be passed to help all school districts and not just those in Chicago suburbs.

The other bill (H3583), sponsored by Rep. Joseph Lundy, D-Chicago, would allow school districts to take the lid off their maximum taxing rate to compensate for reduced property assessments in their districts. He said the bill, which passed by a vote of 15-5, would have its greatest effect in Cook County districts.

In effect, Lundy said, the bill would be a "hold harmless" measure to prevent a district's funding from dipping below that of the previous year.

Lundy said some state money would be involved since some districts would qualify for more state aid, but he said he did not know how much.

Throw-away can ban law unlikely

The future looks bleak for a bill which would ban throw-away bottles and cans in Illinois, Rep. Daniel Pierce, chairman of the House Environment Committee, said Tuesday.

"When you have organized labor against you in a Democratic legislature, it's a tough row to hoe," Pierce, a Highland Park Democrat, said.

Pierce's assessment followed a 3-1 vote by the energy subcommittee to send a so-called "bottle bill" back to the full committee with no recommendation for passage or defeat.

The bill, sponsored by Pierce, would require a 5-cent deposit on all beverage containers sold in the state and would outlaw pull-top beverage cans. An amendment to the bill would allow a five-year phase-in period to ease any adverse effects to the state's economy.

Pierce noted several organized labor groups and a significant segment of the beverage container and bottling industry are opposed to his bill because of its anticipated impact on the economy.

The motion to refer the bottle bill back to committee was made by Rep. Michael Getty, D-Dolton.

Four killed in crash

A semi plowed head-on into an International Scout on a curve in Beardstown Tuesday, killing all four persons in the jeep-like vehicle and scattering wreckage over a 100 yard area along U.S. 67, authorities reported.

Cass County coroner Richard Pugh called it one of the worst accidents he has ever seen. "There was total destruction of that light vehicle," he said, so much it was impossible to tell there had been two vehicles.

The dead were identified as Harland Edward Hendricks, 42, John F. Langan, 21, and William H. Parn, 64, all of Mount Sterling, and James E. McPhail, 59, Timewell. Mount Sterling and Timewell are in Brown County, about 20 miles west of the accident site.

Authorities said they had the "suspicion" that Hendricks was the driver but it was impossible to tell from the wreckage.

The semi driver was identified as Tom R. Haney, 26, Chillicothe, an employe of Chipper Cartage, Inc., Peoria. He was taken to Beardstown Hospital for treatment of minor injuries and released shortly after 4 p.m.

Authorities said the pickup was traveling south on U.S. 67 and the semi northbound when the two converged as they rounded a curve about five miles south of Beardstown. The collision occurred about 12:20 p.m. in the southbound lane.

Church named as shrine

The 119-year-old Peter Cartwright United Methodist Church in Pleasant Plains Tuesday was designated as a national United Methodist historic shrine by the denomination's general conference in Portland, Pre.

The church became the first historic site of the church in the state of Illinois. Shrine status has been accorded to only 15 other sites in the United States.

The church was the home church of Peter Cartwright, renowned circuit-riding Methodist preacher for almost half a century in the pioneer era. Pleasant Plains is about 10 miles northwest of Springfield.

Corn surviving frosts

Sprouted corn in northern and eastern Corn Belt regions has survived several recent nights of frost and the cool, dry weather of April, agriculture watchers said Tuesday.

Extension personnel in Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Ohio said there has been some wilting and discoloration by the cold weather, but the growing point remains well protected underground until the plant is several inches long.

Ray Lett, Illinois Agriculture Stabilizaton and Conservation Service director, said dryness in April had retarded growth in corn, but concentrated sprout development below the soil.

"The crop will have a good chance to put down essential roots if we have a dry summer," Lett said. "This is much more advantageous than an ideal spring where top growth is rapid but root development is shallow."

Newspaper drive scheduled Saturday

Boy Scout Troop 153 will hold a newspaper drive at 9 a.m. Saturday in Mount Prospect.

Papers will be picked up on the north side of the village from Mount Prospect Road to Rand Road, Rand Road to Kensington Rd., Kensington Road to Dale Avenue, Dale Avenue to Central road and Central Road to Northwest Highway.

On the south side of the village, papers will be collected east of Elmhurst Rd. from Northwest Highway to Golf Road.

Residents living outside these boundaries may leave papers in the container at Fairview School, 300 N. Fairview St.

Papers, which will be picked up regardless of weather conditions, must be tied together and left at the street curbs. If papers are not collected by 3 p.m., call 255-8043.

'UFOs' guardsmen planes

Five unidentified flying objects spotted over the Quad Cities early Tuesday landed 4,500 miles away near Aviano, Italy, authorities reported.

Instead of creatures from outer space, blue-suited Air National Guardsmen from Iowa and South Dakota climbed out of the needle-nosed craft.

The UFOs, five in tight formation, were first reported by a caller to state police and later confirmed by several police patrolmen. They were part of a flight of 24 F100 Supersabres which left Des Moines, Iowa, early Tuesday and began arriving in Italy about 7½ hours later.

What attracted observers were indicator lights used by tanker aircraft from Grissom Air Force Base in Indiana to direct the jets to a refueling rendezvous about 23,000 feet above the Quad Cities, a spokesman said.

Teacher official backs move

Harper faculty to vote today on union affiliation

Harper College faculty members will vote today on a proposal to affiliate with a nationwide teachers union.

If a majority of the faculty votes in favor of joining a union, another vote will be taken next week to decide with which national teachers union to affiliate.

Faculty Senate Pres. David Macauley said he strongly urged faculty members to support affiliation with either the National Education Assn. or the American Federation of Teachers.

THE DECISION TO hold the unionization vote was made by the faculty at a meeting April 15. Macauley said a "clear majority" indicated they wanted to hold a vote on the issue.

Two earlier attempts to unionize the Harper faculty were rejected by the teachers. Last fall the faculty voted 90 to 77 against a proposal to affiliate with a union, and a similar proposal was also defeated in 1973.

If the faculty decides to join either organization the union would probably take over contract negotiations with the college board of trustees, Macauley said.

Macauley said the faculty senate, which now represents the teachers in salary negotiations, has been "very ineffectual" and has resulted in the absence of faculty governance.

"I'M CONVINCED a union could do a better job than the senate," Macauley said. The senate is made up of 16 representatives elected by the faculty.

Macauley sent a memo to Harper's nearly 200 full-time faculty members, listing reasons to support unionization.

He said the college board's disregard for the senate in salary negotiations and their refusal to negotiate salary ranges and working conditions were among the reasons he urged support for affiliation.

Changes in the board's grievance policy for faculty members, the establishment of a quota system for promotions and the lack of response from the board on faculty recommendations, were other reasons supporting unionization which Macauley listed in his memo to the faculty.

"The board's unilateral breaking off of negotiations was the final straw" in the decision to support union affiliation, Macauley said. The Harper board set faculty salaries last month after ending negotiations with the senate.

Teacher official backs move

Harper faculty to vote today on union affiliation

Harper College faculty members will vote today on a proposal to affiliate with a nationwide teachers union.

If a majority of the faculty votes in favor of joining a union, another vote will be taken next week to decide with which national teachers union to affiliate.

Faculty Senate Pres. David Macauley said he strongly urged faculty members to support affiliation with either the National Education Assn. or the American Federation of Teachers.

THE DECISION TO hold the unionization vote was made by the faculty at a meeting April 15. Macauley said a "clear majority" indicated they wanted to hold a vote on the issue.

Two earlier attempts to unionize the Harper faculty were rejected by the teachers. Last fall the faculty voted 90 to 77 against a proposal to affiliate with a union, and a similar proposal was also defeated in 1973.

If the faculty decides to join either organization the union would probably take over contract negotiations with the college board of trustees, Macauley said.

MERIT!

'Enriched Flavor'™ process prompts unprecedented response to taste of new low tar MERIT.

Smokers are talking about a new kind of cigarette.

It's MERIT. The remarkable new low tar cigarette made with the 'Enriched Flavor'™ process.

MERIT has only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today. Yet, taste tests proved that MERIT delivers as much—or more—flavor than cigarettes having up to 60% more tar.

areas. "Ombudsman for the handicapped." That's what Pete called his job.

But Pete complained that not enough persons know he's there, ready to work with local organizations. "That's why I'm so glad to have the media," he said.

He never quit living after MS. "Always look for different worlds to conquer," Pete admonished. "It's better to stay busy, not just for medical reasons or peace of mind, but because I want to be busy."

OTHERS HAVE NOT been so fortunate. Pete said there are 11 million disbled Americans who could work. But only four million are employed.

The remainder cannot find jobs. Or they have no way to get to work. Stories are as varied as the people. But they're nearly all on relief. That bothers Pete.

"I can't believe anyone enjoys being on public aid," said Pete. "There's pride in bringing home a paycheck and knowing that by the sweat of your brow, you made it.

"It goes back to the adage of early America," he said. "If you don't work, then you don't eat. That pride is there in many of the handicapped."

Today

Mike Klein's people

LAST WEEKEND, Pete attended the annual meeting of The President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, a conference in Washington, D.C.

President Gerald R. Ford also was scheduled to attend but chose to campaign in Texas.

The 2,000 conventioneers were not pleased at being snubbed by Ford, who apparently sent invitations to everyone but himself.

They also were concerned about being overlooked in modern America. "There's a great feeling of militancy among the handicapped," said Pete. "We're not asking for a handout.

"WE'RE CITIZENS of this country like anybody else. It's our right to enjoy the American Dream, the right to work."

Pete Smith is more fortunate than some handicapped Americans. He came south from Milwaukee, already afflicted with multiple sclerosis.

Novo Airfreight hired Pete Smith for his talents as a salesman. "They had a great deal of faith that I could produce, if by nothing other than the telephone," said Pete. "We've been able to achieve that."

Pete would have the same chance exist for every handicapped person, that right to work.

"I am a living person. I am not to be laughed at," Pete said in support of all disabled Americans. "I am not to be taken for granted."

New treatment for breast cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A generally optimistic picture was presented Tuesday of the effort to develop new ways to treat breast cancer and justify less disfiguring surgery for the disease that strikes 90,000 women annually.

"The news, so far, is very good indeed," Dr. Frank Rauscher, director of the National Cancer Institute, told a Senate health subcommittee.

Rauscher summarized several trials now under way in this country and abroad that are looking at the effects of various anticancer drug combinations following surgery. He also discussed studies comparing less extensive surgery with the traditional radical mastectomy that removes the breast, underlying chest muscles and armpit lymph nodes.

"Certainly, if current results continue the outlook is optimistic for increased use of less radical surgical procedures," he said. "But it could take another 10 years to determine the best role of the various treatment techniques to produce most cures with a minimum of surgery."

TIME IS THE key factor. Rauscher said preliminary results from tests with anticancer drugs are encouraging and support the rationale for using powerful chemicals early to destroy cancer cells that may have spread to distant parts of the body. But he said a few more years are needed before definite conclusions can be reached.

Dr. Bernard Fisher, University of Pittsburgh surgeon and chairman of an NCI breast cancer study program, agreed with Rauscher that there is reason for optimism. But he said more time also is needed to show whether less extensive breast surgery is as effective as radical mastectomy.

That doctors still face a dilemma in determining the best method to treat breast cancer was pointed out by the testimony of Drs. Cushman Haagensen and Sven Kister of Columbia University's College of Physicains and Surgeons.

They said the facts derived from 10-year studies showed the radical mastectomy still is the preferred way to treat breast cancer. They also questioned the wisdom of using anticancer drugs when their long-term side effects as well as effectiveness are not yet known.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the panel, asked Rauscher what he would advise his wife if she had breast cancer.

"I would advise her to have a modified surgical procedure followed by chemotherapy," Rauscher replied, meaning a modified radical operation removing the breast and lymph nodes but sparing the chest muscles.

areas. "Ombudsman for the handicapped." That's what Pete called his job.

But Pete complained that not enough persons know he's there, ready to work with local organizations. "That's why I'm so glad to have the media," he said.

He never quit living after MS. "Always look for different worlds to conquer," Pete admonished. "It's better to stay busy, not just for medical reasons or peace of mind, but because I want to be busy."

OTHERS HAVE NOT been so fortunate. Pete said there are 11 million disbled Americans who could work. But only four million are employed.

The remainder cannot find jobs. Or they have no way to get to work. Stories are as varied as the people. But they're nearly all on relief. That bothers Pete.

"I can't believe anyone enjoys being on public aid," said Pete. "There's pride in bringing home a paycheck and knowing that by the sweat of your brow, you made it.

"It goes back to the adage of early America," he said. "If you don't work, then you don't eat. That pride is there in many of the handicapped."

Today

Mike Klein's people

LAST WEEKEND, Pete attended the annual meeting of The President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, a conference in Washington, D.C.

President Gerald R. Ford also was scheduled to attend but chose to campaign in Texas.

The 2,000 conventioneers were not pleased at being snubbed by Ford, who apparently sent invitations to everyone but himself.

They also were concerned about being overlooked in modern America. "There's a great feeling of militancy among the handicapped," said Pete. "We're not asking for a handout.

"WE'RE CITIZENS of this country like anybody else. It's our right to enjoy the American Dream, the right to work."

Pete Smith is more fortunate than some handicapped Americans. He came south from Milwaukee, already afflicted with multiple sclerosis.

Novo Airfreight hired Pete Smith for his talents as a salesman. "They had a great deal of faith that I could produce, if by nothing other than the telephone," said Pete. "We've been able to achieve that."

Pete would have the same chance exist for every handicapped person, that right to work.

"I am a living person. I am not to be laughed at," Pete said in support of all disabled Americans. "I am not to be taken for granted."

New treatment for breast cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A generally optimistic picture was presented Tuesday of the effort to develop new ways to treat breast cancer and justify less disfiguring surgery for the disease that strikes 90,000 women annually.

"The news, so far, is very good indeed," Dr. Frank Rauscher, director of the National Cancer Institute, told a Senate health subcommittee.

Rauscher summarized several trials now under way in this country and abroad that are looking at the effects of various anticancer drug combinations following surgery. He also discussed studies comparing less extensive surgery with the traditional radical mastectomy that removes the breast, underlying chest muscles and armpit lymph nodes.

"Certainly, if current results continue the outlook is optimistic for increased use of less radical surgical procedures," he said. "But it could take another 10 years to determine the best role of the various treatment techniques to produce most cures with a minimum of surgery."

TIME IS THE key factor. Rauscher said preliminary results from tests with anticancer drugs are encouraging and support the rationale for using powerful chemicals early to destroy cancer cells that may have spread to distant parts of the body. But he said a few more years are needed before definite conclusions can be reached.

Dr. Bernard Fisher, University of Pittsburgh surgeon and chairman of an NCI breast cancer study program, agreed with Rauscher that there is reason for optimism. But he said more time also is needed to show whether less extensive breast surgery is as effective as radical mastectomy.

That doctors still face a dilemma in determining the best method to treat breast cancer was pointed out by the testimony of Drs. Cushman Haagensen and Sven Kister of Columbia University's College of Physicains and Surgeons.

They said the facts derived from 10-year studies showed the radical mastectomy still is the preferred way to treat breast cancer. They also questioned the wisdom of using anticancer drugs when their long-term side effects as well as effectiveness are not yet known.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the panel, asked Rauscher what he would advise his wife if she had breast cancer.

"I would advise her to have a modified surgical procedure followed by chemotherapy," Rauscher replied, meaning a modified radical operation removing the breast and lymph nodes but sparing the chest muscles.

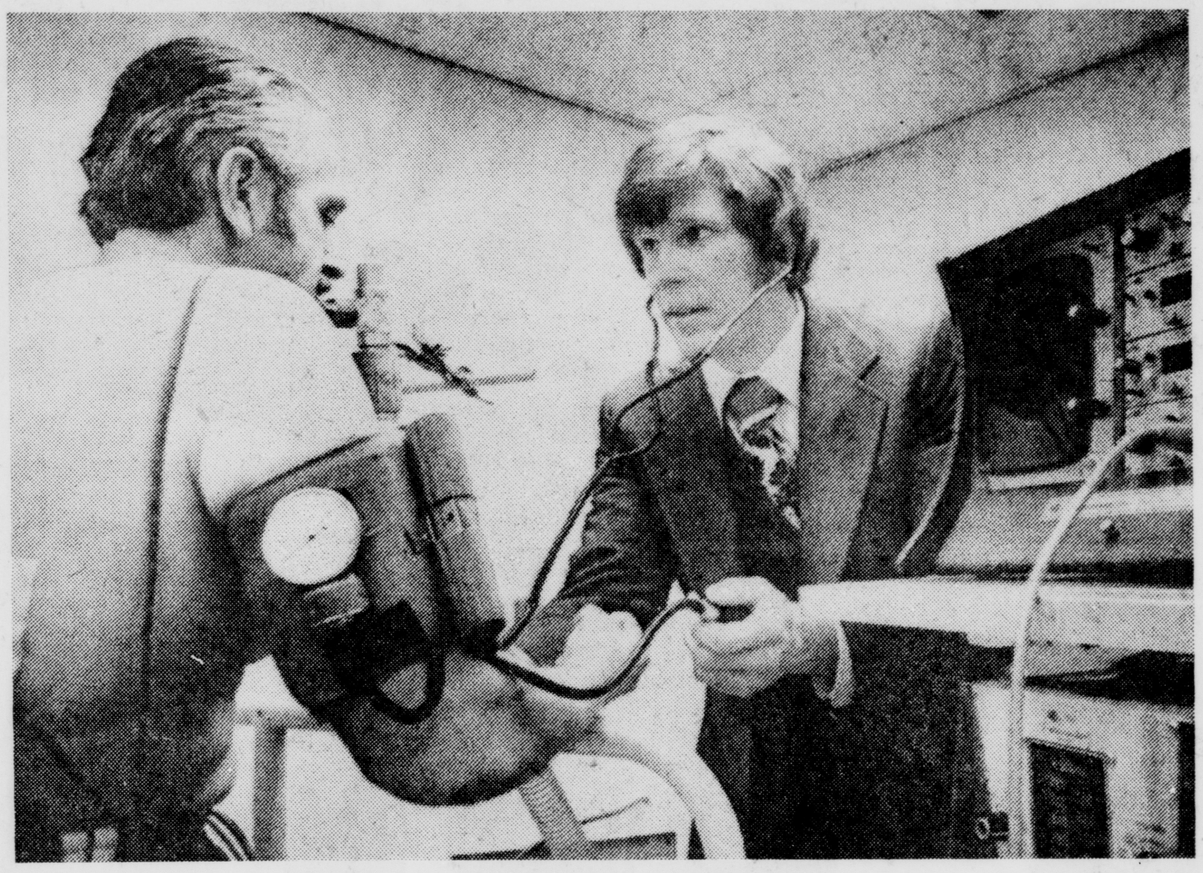
Doctor advises 'vigorous' tennis

'Crash' exercise a waste of time



DR. PAUL LESSACK measures a patient's physical fitness. Most of the exercises Americans do are not enough to keep them in shape and some are actually counterproductive, he said.

GREENBROOK, N.J. (UPI) — Most Americans who go on a crash exercise program to get into shape are wasting their time.

And a game of tennis may wear a player out, but it will do little good unless it is played regularly and properly. Worse, most people don't realize it but they actually may be hurting themselves unless they follow rules emerging out of recent research by physical fitness specialists.

This advice comes from Dr. Paul Lessack, one of the new breed of exercise physiologists.

Ninety-five per cent of the American people are out of shape, according to the President's Council on Physical Fitness, but Lessack says the epidemic of flabby hearts and limbs is even worse than that because the President's Council counted amateur tennis buffs among the fit 5 per cent. Lessack says you've got to play tennis and certain other sports the right way before they do you any good.

"The reason that so many people are not in shape is that most Americans don't exercise at all, and those who do exercise don't do the kinds of things that will get them into shape," Lessack said in an interview at the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry-Rutgers Medical School, where he is director of adult fitness and cardiac rehabilitation at the Raritan Valley Hospital.

AMONG PHYSIOLOGISTS, shape has nothing to do with the curve of a woman's hips or the fitness of a man's stomach. It is the health of a person's circulatory system and its ability to fight off heart disease.

"Exercises such as golf, softball, situps, pushups, lifting weights, yoga — these can be done religiously but they won't get a person into shape," Lessack said. "A game like golf, you can play 18 holes five times a week and it's not doing anything for your fitness level."

The "right kind of exercises are tennis, swimming, cycling, jogging and jumping rope.

A word of caution is the first advice Lessack gives anyone over 25 who embarks on an exercise program.

"The summer athlete who says 'I think I'll take up tennis to get in shape' is doing the wrong thing. You shouldn't use sports as an exercise. You should get into shape first, and then play."

A GRADULA SHAPE-UP program will help the heart withstand the rigors of proper exercise, and doctors recommend an exercise stress test on a treadmill for older people, who have not exercised for years.

Exercise physiologists say the body is gettijg the proper beneifts of exercise when the heart beat is raised to 60 to 80 per cent of its capacity and is kept at that level for 12 minutes, and the exercise is done on alternate days no less than three times a week.

"If you do it four or five times a week, there are no greater benefits unless you have a weight problem and have to burn calories," Lessack says.

But three times a week is important.

"If a person does exercise once a week it is potentially dangerous. Twice a week the danger is lessened but there is still no benefit," Lessack says.

"A person, who plays tennis all year 'round but only on weekends, is in danger because the body is not used to exercise and there may be stresses on the heart."

STRANGE AS IT might seem, Lessack says people should take their pulse immediately after playing to make sure they are raising their heart beat to the proper level.

To find the right level, a person takes the number 220, subtracts his age and then subtracts the number 40. A 30-year-old man should aim for a heart beat of 150 beats per minute under athletic stress. The one-minute pulse rate is found by counting the pulse for 10 seconds and multiplying the number by six.

"If the rate is below the target, you're not working hard enough," Lessack said.

Tests have shown the heart will reach the proper level within a few minutes, and trainers warn it is important to warm up before starting strenuous activity.

Lessack says the benefits gained by this heart exercise are many. The lungs breathe more efficiently, the heart pumps more blood and the circulatory system carries more oxygen through the body. That means a physicall-fit person's normal heart rate is actually lower than most everyone else's, and there is less strain on the heart over the years because it doesn't have to pump as haard to do the same amount of work.

Lessack points out that one is never too old to begin a proper exercise program. Even people who have suffered heart attacks can regain a remarkable degree of fitness.

In Lessack's view, proper exercise is an activity that should be part of everyone's lives whether they are young or old.

You've heard about the house painter who painted the wrong house, the roofer who puts the roof on the house next door to the right one and house movers have even moved the wrong house. Now comes the report from an eastern city that a television serviceman put the antenna on the wrong roof top.

I suppose it was bound to happen eventually.

At Landwehrs TV & Appliance Center, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, we're making a keen note of this report. When you phone 255-0700 for antenna services, your neighbor won't find us on his roof.

Bug schemes usually publicity come-ons

Profits light for firefly chasing

Collecting fireflies for fun and profit may be as fleeting as the twinkling bugs themselves, Alan Antonik of Antonik Laboratories, Elk Grove Village, cautioned Tuesday.

Antonik Laboratories is one of the biggest research users of chemicals and enzymes derived from the bodies of lightning bugs and the firm has a well-established list of collectors in the Northwest suburbs, Antonik said. Other firms that also offer to pay up to $1 per 100 bugs often are interested only in the publicity, he said.

"Kids get all excited about it. Catch the fireflies and freeze them, or whatever, only to be stalled when it comes time to be paid," Antonik said.

ANTONIK LABORATORIES has not sought firefly collectors for several years, he said. But other firms do put out a seasonal call, primarily because of the publicity value, he said.

"Many times the youngsters will find when they write in that they have to get special (firefly catching) kits and boxes. Or they have to share the money they were promised with two or three other people up the line. It's disappointing and just not very fair," Antonik said.

Lightning bugs are a valuable source of rare chemicals called Luciferin and the enzyme, Luciferase. The chemicals are used in medical research for the diagnosis of certain diseases, including muscular dystrophy. Scientists also use the chemicals in the search for possible cures for diseases, including cancer.

FIREFLY COMPOUNDS help detect life on other planets, and bacterial pollution in water supplies on earth.

Antonik said children or their parents who are interested in firefly catching should make sure of the details before they spend their summer chasing beetles.

"We have a regular collection service and we always tell people who write or call that, 'We'll put you on the list and contact you when we can.' We might add 100 collectors a year," he said.

"WE GIVE EACH collector a contract that's actually a quota of say 2,000 fireflies. Then we meet them at a local high school and give them a check. It's cash on the barrel head," Antonik said.

Antoik Laboratories several years ago developed the method for using firefly chemicals to detect muscular dystrophy in infants. Mixing a drop of the baby's blood with the phosphoescent chemicals gives medical technicians a clear indication whether the child will develop muscular dystrophy.

In the detection of water pollution, lightning bug chemicals have cut the laboratory time from 48 to just four hours.

Antonik said it makes very little sense for out-of-town laboratories to advertise for lightning bugs in Chicago, or the Northwest suburbs, except that it is good publicity. "We could probably get 100,000 bugs out of Mount Prospect alone," he said.

Taxpayer repayment sought for IRS suits

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, is cosponsoring legislation which would reimburse taxpayers who successfully win tax liability cases against the Internal Revenue Service.

"As it stands now, taxpayers, who do not believe they owe in taxes what the IRS says they owe are reluctant to fight because of the expense," Crane said.

The primary sponsor of the bill is U.S. Rep. James Quillen, R-Tenn., but the legislation has been assigned to the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee, of which Crane is a member.

The new legislation is similar to other bills sponsored by Crane that allow citizens to collect expenses if they successfully sue a government agency.

It'll never cover what we need to cover!

The way we see it

Dist. 25 needs tax hike to maintain its program

Voters in Arlington Heights Elementary School Dist. 25 will go to the polls Saturday to consider a tax rate increase of 52 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation which would generate $1.1 million in revenue for the district.

The Dist. 25 board is asking for the increase to offset projected budget deficits and prevent further cuts in the education program of the district.

Dist. 25, like its neighbors, is struggling with the problems of inflation, declining enrollments, dwindling state aid and mounting indebtedness.

The board has spent the last school year studying bleak financial projections which forecast a $1.3 million deficit for the 1976-77 school year and expected continuing deficits. This spring the board responded to those figures by slashing $900,000 from the 1976-77 budget.

The cuts mean 70 positions will be eliminated, including 43 classroom teachers. North School will be closed, the district's gifted program, social work and psychological services will be reduced, and administrative and maintenance costs will be pared.

Despite the budget cuts, the district will remain in debt and will have to borrow on the next year's taxes to meet its expenses.

We support the tax rate increase. We believe it has been well planned and presented and is the only way to maintain the education program in Dist. 25.

Without the tax rate increase, Dist. 25 will need to cut at least $1.1 million from the 1977-78 budget. Such reductions would cut deeply into the education program. They would include elimination of elementary music and physical education, homemaking and industrial arts at the junior high level, assistant principals and support staff in the libraries, learning centers and other areas.

The cuts also would mean further reductions in administrative, custodial and clerical staffs and the elimination of 28 more teaching positions, resulting in a class size increase to an average of 32 students per class.

Some people question why in a period of declining enrollment a district needs more money. Dist. 25 has not had a tax increase since 1968 and inflation alone has a bearing. In addition, it takes at least three years for a district to compensate financially for the impact of declining enrollment.

The 52-cent tax rate increase will bring the district to its legal maximum under state law and represents a substantial tax increase to homeowners. But we believe that the people of Arlington Heights have a basic commitment to good schools. Many residents moved here for quality education the area affords, and approval of Saturday's referendum will preserve that quality.

District consolidation highlighted

A basic question faces elementary school districts in the Northwest suburbs — can they continue to function under the present provincial system or should they consolidate to expand their tax base, combine their student populations and share their resources.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 this weekend is asking voters to approve a substantial tax rate increase to bail the district out of its financial problems. More school districts are expected to propose referendums this year because of a common plight.

All but two local elementary school districts — Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 and Buffalo Grove-Long Grove Dist. 96 — have been hard hit by declining enrollment. All of the districts, including those which are growing, are suffering from a lack of money to run the schools.

Consolidation may not be a panacea for school problems but it does offer districts an opportunity to save money in duplicated administration and special service costs and gives a district more options in combating a dropping enrollment.

Dist. 25 and several other elementary school districts also have little or no industry within their boundaries, resulting in a low tax base that can be financially devastating. If these districts merge with neighboring districts, it could mean more revenue for everyone.

We have supported the concept of consolidation in the past and believe it is something local districts should study. Local control of schools is an important issue here and elsewhere, yet if this means nothing more than local approval of program reductions, consolidation should be discussed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5 — An unidentified friend wrote Virginia delegate Richard Henry Lee urging him to sponsor a call for independence by Congress. The correspondent said further delay would be damaging to morale of the people, including the majority who "cry out for this declaration."

Residents need to attend information session for Buffalo Grove referendum

I would like to respond to several ideas concerning the upcoming Buffalo Grove Park Dist. referendum on May 8.

Firstly, I would like to commend The Herald, and Miss Laura Schmalbach in particular, for your efforts in helping get the information out about the referendum. Laura spent a long night with us last Thursday and her articles have been mostly incisive and clear. Although not all families receive The Herald, it is still our number one source of information, as many residents cannot get to our regularly scheduled meetings.

Secondly, I would like to add my own impressions to Laura's report about last Thursday's public meeting. The impression was given through the quote of the plan commissioner that we may have alienated the village board and commissions through a lack of information. Since April 8, when we officially received the petition for referendum from the voters in the district, we have been working as hard and as fast as we can to prepare our informational brochure and budget graphs. The brochures have been delivered to every homeowner and voter in the district and The Herald has published the specific park improvements budget. As I listened to the trustee's questions I did not see alienation but only further search for more information. Mrs. Rech's questions about our tax and bond rates were just and precise, and Mr. Wayne Benjamin, our expert bond consultant, answered them just as precisely. Trustee Bogart said he could support the park improvements part of the referendum but not the land acquisition section, whereas the park board feels we must acquire the land now rather than wait for future negotiations with developers. Trustee Marienthal's questions again were informative and did not express alienation. Communication between all village boards and commissions is difficult and we all must continue to bridge the multiple meeting gap.

Thirdly, regarding the residents views on baseball fields. Our baseball fields, which are not in the good shape they should be, are used constantly in the spring, summer and fall by many other groups besides the Little League: girls, women's and men's softball leagues, park district instructional leagues and summer day campers, various football and soccer teams, the schools and their outdoor activities. The BGRA, serving 750 boys and girls in Little League and utilizing the help and expertise of many moms and dads, funds its own programs. They and all the other groups deserve safe, well prepared fields and through the referendum passage we all will benefit. If one but looks over the proposed park development budget published this past Saturday in The Herald, one can see that many other programs and improvements are also planned.

Lastly, I would like to invite the residents to attend a neighborhood informational meeting this week. There was one Monday night at Irving School and another Tuesday at Twin Groves School, and there will be one Thursday at Kilmer School at 8 p.m. The commissioners and staff will be there to answer further questions. If a resident cannot come, give any one of us a call. We need more park space to suit the peoples' needs; the people need to have these parks suitable to recreate in; we need the peoples' help next Saturday to do both.

Fire show at Randhurst

Home fires don't have to cause loss of life. The safety of your family from fire is in jeopardy during the hours they are asleep. The solution to this problem is a home smoke detector. A smoke detector sounds an alarm when a fire is in its initial stage. This is important because it enables you to evacuate your family to a place of safety where you can call your local fire department immediately. A reliable fire detection system should be part of every home's fire-safety plan. The fire service realizes that the public is uninformed on the numerous varieties of detectors, how they operate, and where they should be installed for the best protection. In an effort to educate the public, the local fire departments are asking citizens to come to the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect this week to have their questions answered by the experts.

Randhurst is the location for the Sixth Annual Fire Service Recognition Week from May 3 through May 8. Along with the fun and festivities that week, a big part of the show will be the participation of many fire equipment manufacturers who are the people who produce and market home fire detection systems. They will be on hand to demonstrate their detection devices and answer your questions. We hope you never experience a fire. But if you do, effective planning can make the difference between an inconvenience and a tragedy.

Civic action stops vandals

Another break-in, another school vandalized; how long must this community tolerate such insane, inexcusable behavior?

Who pays? Who suffers? I know, you know. Whether you have school age children or not, you, as an Arlington Heights taxpayer, suffer and pay.

Each time one of these senseless acts is committed, people, good, well-meaning people talk among themselves. In their backyards, neighborhood stores and places of business, they continue to ask, "Why?" "What kind of a person would do such a thing?" They receive no answer. There must be an answer. The parents, the courts, the community itself must answer.

I am extremely saddened by all this, I am angry, I am unsatisfied, I am unanswered!

I DNO NOT have the 'golden' answer, but I deeply desire a solution and willingly commit myself to it.

This is our village, this is our young future out there. We must decide and act as a whole community, and this must be done as swiftly as possible.

What kind of a world is this, if our youth must get their 'jollies' from this type of action.

I recently had the pleasure of attending a Bicentennial pageant at the Juliette Low school. The pageant was put on by the combined fifth grade classes, and it was nothing short of phenomenal!

These young people showed talent and a considerable knowledge of our nation's history which they adequately demonstrated. In many areas, unfortunately, the Bicentennial has become very much commercialized so that the real meaning of it is lost. This has not been the case at Juliette Low school. The teachers, parents and the students themselves deserve the thanks of this community.

Parade help sought

Arlington Heights has two big parades coming up in the near future: the Memorial Day parade, which is sponsored by the V.F.W., and the 4th of July Bicentennial parade sponsored by the American Legion.

Edward R. Doyle is a member of both organizations and is also chairman of both parades. Ed has worked hard to make these parades a success. But he does need a lot of community help to make these parades successful.

At this time he is looking for owners of late model convertibles for the parades. Ed would certainly welcome convertible owners participation in the parades. You can call Ed at 437-2864 and he will give you full information on both parades.

Dist. 25 needs tax hike to maintain its program

Voters in Arlington Heights Elementary School Dist. 25 will go to the polls Saturday to consider a tax rate increase of 52 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation which would generate $1.1 million in revenue for the district.

The Dist. 25 board is asking for the increase to offset projected budget deficits and prevent further cuts in the education program of the district.

Dist. 25, like its neighbors, is struggling with the problems of inflation, declining enrollments, dwindling state aid and mounting indebtedness.

The board has spent the last school year studying bleak financial projections which forecast a $1.3 million deficit for the 1976-77 school year and expected continuing deficits. This spring the board responded to those figures by slashing $900,000 from the 1976-77 budget.

The cuts mean 70 positions will be eliminated, including 43 classroom teachers. North School will be closed, the district's gifted program, social work and psychological services will be reduced, and administrative and maintenance costs will be pared.

Despite the budget cuts, the district will remain in debt and will have to borrow on the next year's taxes to meet its expenses.

We support the tax rate increase. We believe it has been well planned and presented and is the only way to maintain the education program in Dist. 25.

Without the tax rate increase, Dist. 25 will need to cut at least $1.1 million from the 1977-78 budget. Such reductions would cut deeply into the education program. They would include elimination of elementary music and physical education, homemaking and industrial arts at the junior high level, assistant principals and support staff in the libraries, learning centers and other areas.

The cuts also would mean further reductions in administrative, custodial and clerical staffs and the elimination of 28 more teaching positions, resulting in a class size increase to an average of 32 students per class.

Some people question why in a period of declining enrollment a district needs more money. Dist. 25 has not had a tax increase since 1968 and inflation alone has a bearing. In addition, it takes at least three years for a district to compensate financially for the impact of declining enrollment.

The 52-cent tax rate increase will bring the district to its legal maximum under state law and represents a substantial tax increase to homeowners. But we believe that the people of Arlington Heights have a basic commitment to good schools. Many residents moved here for quality education the area affords, and approval of Saturday's referendum will preserve that quality.

District consolidation highlighted

A basic question faces elementary school districts in the Northwest suburbs — can they continue to function under the present provincial system or should they consolidate to expand their tax base, combine their student populations and share their resources.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 this weekend is asking voters to approve a substantial tax rate increase to bail the district out of its financial problems. More school districts are expected to propose referendums this year because of a common plight.

All but two local elementary school districts — Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 and Buffalo Grove-Long Grove Dist. 96 — have been hard hit by declining enrollment. All of the districts, including those which are growing, are suffering from a lack of money to run the schools.

Consolidation may not be a panacea for school problems but it does offer districts an opportunity to save money in duplicated administration and special service costs and gives a district more options in combating a dropping enrollment.

Dist. 25 and several other elementary school districts also have little or no industry within their boundaries, resulting in a low tax base that can be financially devastating. If these districts merge with neighboring districts, it could mean more revenue for everyone.

We have supported the concept of consolidation in the past and believe it is something local districts should study. Local control of schools is an important issue here and elsewhere, yet if this means nothing more than local approval of program reductions, consolidation should be discussed.

I would like to respond to several ideas concerning the upcoming Buffalo Grove Park Dist. referendum on May 8.

Firstly, I would like to commend The Herald, and Miss Laura Schmalbach in particular, for your efforts in helping get the information out about the referendum. Laura spent a long night with us last Thursday and her articles have been mostly incisive and clear. Although not all families receive The Herald, it is still our number one source of information, as many residents cannot get to our regularly scheduled meetings.

Secondly, I would like to add my own impressions to Laura's report about last Thursday's public meeting. News analysis Presidential candidates have been barking at the heals of Congress and the courts for the past two months to get some money from the currently defunct Federal Elections Commission.

They are clamoring for money for their primary campaigns. They need the dough to buy expensive television time in the various states having elections in the coming weeks.

With those two facts in mind, the idea of a group like the League of Women Voters offering a free hour of television time could cause observers to conjure up images of a veritable stampede of candidates rushing into the television studio.

The fourth in a series of five such televised programs was held in Chicago on WTTW-TV Monday, but instead of a stampede the candidates mostly trickled into the Ambassador West Hotel.

U.S. REP. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., and U.S. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, were the only candidates to appear. Alabama Gov. George Wallace had been committed to attend, but failed to show.

Had Wallace appeared, the program would have run for 90 minutes. Jimmy Carter was campaigning in Indiana and California Gov. Edmund Brown was not invited. He has not yet qualified for federal matching funds, which was a criterion set down by the government.

Church and Udall discussed U.S. foreign policy, detente and foreign trade for more than an hour. They really talked to their hearts content and afterwards agreed that the format offered by the presidential forum was the best way of conducting a presidential campaign.

"I wish there were moe of it," Church said, hinting the price was right. Udall made a similar remark. Both men took a swack at Carter for not appearing, but he did attend the first three sessions. President Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan have not made any.

1976 IS SUPPOSED to be the year of the issues. The political pundits are saying the people are tired of 30-second glimpses of candidates on the tube or meaningless appearances at factory gates and bowling alleys.

While Church said he did not see a need for government funding for more forum-type affairs, Udall said it would be a good idea.

"We ought to get the networks involved in it, too," he added. Udall also suggested the party make an effort to require candidates to appear at these events.

Requiring candidates to appear almost sounds undemocratic, but a series of forum-type programs could go a long way toward generating an issues-oriented campaign.

ELIE ABEL, the dean of the Columbia University journalism graduate school, was uncertain whether the program was the "best" means of conducting a campaign. Abel has served as moderator of the programs. He has worked for network television for many years before joining Columbia University.

"I am not sure this is he best way, all of the candidates were not here, but it does allow for a good discussion on issues," Abel said.

But he then admitted that such programs might not do front-running candidates any good. They might end up defending their positions to other candidates, while the other candidates were not being similarly exposed.

WITHOUT ALL of the candidates, the success of such programs can be muted. The other unknown factor is public acceptance. A spokesma for A. C. Nielsen Co. said Tuesday WTTW does not subscribe to the overnight ratings service, so there is no quick way to tell how many viewers watched the show.

Earlier broadcasts did well for public television shows, but when compared to commercial competitors there really is no comparison.

The final broadcast in the series will occur May 24 and deal with the environment.

If Monday's broadcast was an example, the session will offer voters a good chance to compare positions regardless of how many candidates appear.

Late rally drives prices up

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally drove prices higher Tuesday for the first time in three days on the New York Stock Exchange.

Most analysts said bargain-hunting accounted for most of the late activity. A slight decline in short-term interest rates banks charge each other for loans also sparked some buying. The rates had risen lately, indicating a tighter Federal Reserve Board monetary policy.

Some oil, chemical and drug issues gained ground when the Senate Finance Committee defeated a move to impose taxes on oil wells, and this also helped the over-all market.

THE DOW JONES industrial average, an 11.81-point loser the previous two sessions, rose 3.38 points to 993.70 after being down more than five points early in the session.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.54 to 101.46, the NYSE common stock index added 0.29 to 53.97 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 19 cents.

Advances topped declines, 834 to 572, among the 1,870 issues crossing the tape. But the 464 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty about the near-term future.

Volume swelled to 17,240,000 shares from 15,180,000 traded Monday, the fourth slowest session of the year.

Among the pacesetting energy-related issues, Atlantic Richfield gained 2½ to 96½ and Marathon Oil 2-7/8 to 55. Exxon, Monsanto, Stauffer Chemical, Merck, and Abbott Laboratories were point-size gainers.

Prices closed higher in light trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by one cent. Volume totaled 1,950,000 shares, compared with 1,780,000 traded Monday.

Soviets buy 625,000 tons of U.S. corn, wheat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has bought another 625,000 metric tons of American corn and wheat, the Agriculture Dept. announced Tuesday.

The sale, bringing Soviet grain orders during the past week to nearly 5 million metric tons, followed Agriculture Sec. Earl L. Butz's comment that further sales would be welcome because American stocks are ample and big 1976 grain crops are in prospect.

Butz said sales going well beyond the initial order announced Tuesday could be made without shaking prospects that domestic food inflation this year would be held to 3 to 4 per cent, the lowest since at least 1972.

Officials aid the latest sale by the Louis Dreyfus Corp. included 300,000 tons of 1975-crop corn for delivery before Sept. 30, and 200,000 tons of 1976-crop corn for delivery after Oct. 1. In addition, the Russians ordered 125,000 tons of 1976-crop wheat for shipment after Oct. 1.

The 1975-crop sales bring Soviet purchases from last year's record American harvests to an over-all total of 16.5 million metric tons. Officials had said they would require governmental consultations before allowing 1975-crop sales to top 17 million tons.

But Butz said Monday that he would favor permitting shipments in excess of the 17 million limit.

Shipments after Oct. 1 are governed by a five-year Soviet-American agreement under which the Russians are required to buy at least 6 million metric tons and can go over 8 million tons only after consultations with U.S. officials.

The sales announced Tuesday bring Soviet orders charged to the year beginning Oct. 1 to a total of 2.2 million tons.

Bicentennial promos after your bucks

Chain letters and other promotions designed to encourage consumer spending may have been around for years, but this year they'll take a new twist.

Chances are good this year's appeal to money-hungry citizens in the chain-letter scheme will have Bicentennial flavor, said Mount Prospect Postmaster Raphael Palubicki. Palubicki is among several local officials warning the public of patriotic fund-raising shenanigans. some legal promotions are simply designed to help consumers spend money.

A scheme which involves a Bicentennial U.S. Savings Bonds promotion has cropped up in several U.S. urban centers, Palubicki said.

THE LETTER with the Bicentennial gimmick urges those receiving it to mail $2 — $1 for each 100 years — to the person whose name is first on the list in celebration of our nation's 200th birthday," he said.

"Chief Postal Inspector C. Neil Benson has informed us that actual profits from chain letters are usually obtained only by those who originate or enter the scheme very early," the postmaster said. Chain letters requesting money or other items of value are considered fraudulent and cannot be mailed under the Federal Mail Fraud Statute.

Another scheme designed to draw donations from patriotic Americans was cited in a suit filed Tuesday in Cook County Circuit Court by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. Scott said about $1.3 million was raised in the "Spirit of '76 Foundation" campaign by Patrick J. Gorman Consultants, Inc. Some $1.1 million of this amount was gobbled up by fund-rasing, including payment of $87,000 to one of Gorman's own firms.

Then there are about 80 unfortunate Illinois residents who plunked down at least $200,000 for a Bicentennial plaque money-making operations based in Elk Grove Village. Attorneys in Scott's Criminal Law division are investigating charges against the now-defunct Deco-Mak Inc.

"We're checking to see whether they're in any new schemes," said a criminal law division spokesman. The case is under investigation by the postal service, Scott said.

CONSUMERS shouldn't be hoodwinked by schemes aimed at fleecing the patriotic citizen if they make sure they get value for their money, said George Head of the U.S. Postal Service, Chicago. He is assistant inspector in charge. The U.S. Savings Bonds scheme has spread to Illinois and other states, he said. He urged the public to contact local postmasters or his office in Chicago if they have fraud complaints.

Even podiatrists are cashing in on the Bicentennial. Letters received from the Elk Grove Foot Clinic and Dr. Jerome Mann of Arlington Heights urge the public to avoid a possible "fatigue epidemic" during the celebration of Bicentennial events.

"This will result from hours of driving, followed by crowded hotels and motels, long lines at historical attractions, packed restaurants, and a great deal of walking," the podiatrists said in identical statements.

Speaking for the Illinois Podiatry Society to promote the upcoming Foot Health Week May 9-15, the podiatrists suggest the way to get in shape for the Bicentennial is to seek professional foot care, wear comfortable shoes and take other precautions.

ALL THE HOOPLA about Bicentennial commercialism could be sidestepped by a return to the principles of independence, said John Rossen, a spokesman for the Chicago Area Peoples Bicentennial Commission.

Worship of money and authority should be replaced "by concern and love of the land and its people," Rossen said.

The Peoples Bicentennial Commission also calls for the identification of large corporations as "the Tories of the day. It's really outrageous the way the Bicentennial has been commercialized,' Rossen said.

The Illinois Bicentennial Commission, an affiliate of the American Revolutionary Bicentennial Administration, is a separate organization which will provide information on organizations which may use the official U.S. Bicentennial insignia. For information, call the group in Chicago at 793-4581.

Scott files lawsuit to bar fundraiser from Illinois

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott Tuesday filed suit against fundraiser Patrick J. Gorman to bar future operations by the promoter in Illinois.

Gorman and his associates used patriotic and law-and-order themes in their plans to collect donations from the public, Scott said. He said Gorman failed to register as a fundraiser in Illinois and did not post a required $5,000 bond or copies of contracts.

Through the Commission for International Due Process of Law, Gorman raised funds for the Friends of the FBI organization. The latter group was to defend J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI against left wing critics, Scott said. Of the $381,000 collected by the group, $283,000 was retained by Gorman for a new fund-raising organization with the similar name, Friends of the FBI Inc.

THE PUBLIC TRUST Foundation, through the United Police Fund, was supposed to provide for widows and children of slain policemen. Some $141,000 was raised. Fund-raising costs amounted to $94,000 and payments to widows totaled $17,750.

"Because of these activities, we're asking in Cook County Circuit Court for an injunction to prevent Gorman in the future from ever again soliciting for charity in Illinois, Scott said.

The suit names Gorman, Patrick J. Gorman Consultants Inc., his brother, Martin D. Gorman, and his wife, Rita Gorman. Patrick Gorman is a direct mail fund raiser who has worked for organizations including the Spirit of '76 Foundation, the Commission for International Due Process of Law and the Public trust Foundation.

"We're asking for a total injunction to keep him out of the State of Illinois as a professional fundraiser," said a spokesman for the attorney general's charitable trusts and solicitations division.

A SPOKESMAN FOR Patrick J. Gorman Consultants Inc. firm in Camp Springs, Md., said, "We have not seen the complaint and therefore cannot comment upon it, except to say that we believe we have violated no law in Illinois and that we expect to resist the suit on the merits."

The fund-raising campaigns named in the suit ended in late 1972, early 1973 or mid-1975, the firm said. The firm "has not been involved in any charity fandraising in Illinois since May 1975," the spokesman said.

The Gorman spokesman continued, "We are investigating the motives behind this action by the attorney general's office and will take whatever appropriate steps are necessary in light of this attack."

The purpose of the Spirit of '76 Foundation is to create and instill patriotism, and to obtain a list of names of people who are patriotic. The names of the "patriotic" individuals would be placed on a master list for presentation to President Gerald Ford July 4. The Washington, D.C., foundation is run by fundraiser Gorman and Martin D. Records show the Gorman company collected about $1.3 million from individuals during the past three years. Fund-raising expenses amounted to $1.1 million.

"We have reason to believe, based on other sources, that Gorman raised $1.6 million," said a charitable trusts and solicitations spokesman. Promotions costs also rose with the estimate, he said.

"An interesting thing is that $243,000 was used for the rental of mailing lists, " he continued. "Of that amount, $87,000 was given to a corporation owned and controlled by Gorman — Helix Inc. of Washington."

Bill to trim jobless rate approved by House panel

by DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Education and Labor Committee, after sharp debate, voted 25 to 10 Tuesday to approve a bill to cut the nation's jobless rate by more than half in the next four years.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., would give all Americans aged 16 and over who are able, willing and seeking work the right to a job.

It sets a national goal to reduce unemployment from its recent 7.5 per cent level to 3 per cent by 1980.

Hawkins said it would attempt to do this primarily through the free enterprise economy, by having the President, Congress and the Federal Reserve Board work out coordinated fiscal, monetary and other economic policies.

TO THE EXTENT the goal is not achieved, the bill would have the government provide jobs to those unable to find work.

The Humphrey-Hawkins bill, also pending in the Senate, has been endorsed by all the leading Democratic presidential candidates. President Ford has denounced it as a "vast election-year boondoggle."

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., told the committee Tuesday that if Congress approves the bill it will be moving toward "putting the federal government in control of all aspects of American life."

Rep. Marvin L. Esch, R-Mich., said Congress won't pass the bill and the President won't sign it this year but that the concepts in the bill "will be the vehicle for a national debate for the next six months" during the election campaigns.

Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, of Carbondale agreed there will be a national debate on the bill but said the real issue will be "whom the government serves."

It's tougher to save for college: firm

CHICAGO (UPI) — Inflation is cutting deeply into the amount of savings young Midwesterners are putting aside for their children's higher education.

A study by Esmark Inc., Chicago, hundreds of young married couples in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, showed that only 30 per cent were making financial provisions for their offsprings' higher education.

The study showed that more than 65 per cent indicated they had not yet started to save any money toward that end.

Esmark blamed inflation. Too many young marrieds are struggling to keep up their living standards and they are unable to provide for the future college expenses of their chilren.

THE COMPANY sid, "Unless young marrieds begin to plan well ahead, those dreams of a sheepskin for their toddlers may never be realized."

Esmark suggested an early start in saving for an eductional program and offered suggestions that included:

- Don't trust to luck that your income will increase to the extent that when you are ready to educate your chldren you will be able to afford it.
- Determine your lifestyle needs early in the game. Set up a budget that is tailored to your own family — not just a typical one. Each household is different.
- See if you can curtail one or two expenditures — luxury items that may be eliminated without causing unhappiness.
- Keep the budget simple. If it's too complicated you'll find you spend too much for certain items occasionally.
- Save. Skim off the top of your paycheck for savings before paying bills. Keep savings you earmark for college expenses in a separate account — have still another one going for emergencies.
- Watch credit use. It is helpful when used properly, but interest charges mount up and can upset your budget.
- Consider your total family financial profile and decide upon a program of investment and savings.

Big U.S. firms suffer 17-year low in profits

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last year, the 500 largest corporations in the United States suffered the biggest over-all decline in profits in 17 years, with a drop of 13.3 per cent, Fortune Magazine reported.

Fortune's current issue carries its annual list of the top 500 companies and their financial performance in 1975.

"The results were mostly dismal; gripped by recession, the corporations suffered the most severe earnings drop in 17 years," Fortune said.

Profit losses were "heavily concentrated in the oil companies, which broke all sorts of records in 1974 but ran into big trouble last year," the magazine said.

"The group's earnings fell by 25 per cent and accounted for more than half of the 500's over-all profit decline," Fortune reported.

Total sales of the 500 were $865 billion, a jump of 3.9 per cent of 1974 sales, the report said.

"Tobacco did best of all," the magazine said, "with a median increase of 16.3 per cent because of cigaret increases and the expansion of the low-tar market."

Scott files lawsuit to bar fundraiser from Illinois

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott Tuesday filed suit against fundraiser Patrick J. Gorman to bar future operations by the promoter in Illinois.

Gorman and his associates used patriotic and law-and-order themes in their plans to collect donations from the public, Scott said. He said Gorman failed to register as a fundraiser in Illinois and did not post a required $5,000 bond or copies of contracts.

Through the Commission for International Due Process of Law, Gorman raised funds for the Friends of the FBI organization. The latter group was to defend J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI against left wing critics, Scott said. Of the $381,000 collected by the group, $283,000 was retained by Gorman for a new fund-raising organization with the similar name, Friends of the FBI Inc.

THE PUBLIC TRUST Foundation, through the United Police Fund, was supposed to provide for widows and children of slain policemen. Some $141,000 was raised. Fund-raising costs amounted to $94,000 and payments to widows totaled $17,750.

"Because of these activities, we're asking in Cook County Circuit Court for an injunction to prevent Gorman in the future from ever again soliciting for charity in Illinois, Scott said.

The suit names Gorman, Patrick J. Gorman Consultants Inc., his brother, Martin D. Gorman, and his wife, Rita Gorman. Patrick Gorman is a direct mail fund raiser who has worked for organizations including the Spirit of '76 Foundation, the Commission for International Due Process of Law and the Public trust Foundation.

"We're asking for a total injunction to keep him out of the State of Illinois as a professional fundraiser," said a spokesman for the attorney general's charitable trusts and solicitations division.

A SPOKESMAN FOR Patrick J. Gorman Consultants Inc. firm in Camp Springs, Md., said, "We have not seen the complaint and therefore cannot comment upon it, except to say that we believe we have violated no law in Illinois and that we expect to resist the suit on the merits."

The fund-raising campaigns named in the suit ended in late 1972, early 1973 or mid-1975, the firm said. The firm "has not been involved in any charity fandraising in Illinois since May 1975," the spokesman said.

The Gorman spokesman continued, "We are investigating the motives behind this action by the attorney general's office and will take whatever appropriate steps are necessary in light of this attack."

The purpose of the Spirit of '76 Foundation is to create and instill patriotism, and to obtain a list of names of people who are patriotic. The names of the "patriotic" individuals would be placed on a master list for presentation to President Gerald Ford July 4. The Washington, D.C., foundation is run by fundraiser Gorman and Martin D. Records show the Gorman company collected about $1.3 million from individuals during the past three years. Fund-raising expenses amounted to $1.1 million.

"We have reason to believe, based on other sources, that Gorman raised $1.6 million," said a charitable trusts and solicitations spokesman. Promotions costs also rose with the estimate, he said.

"An interesting thing is that $243,000 was used for the rental of mailing lists, " he continued. "Of that amount, $87,000 was given to a corporation owned and controlled by Gorman — Helix Inc. of Washington."

Ford in balancing act trying to curb trade war

by RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Ford announced that Europe's stainless steel exports to the United States must be cut. The European Common Market screamed in outrage.

Ford announced that European shoe exports to the United States could continue unchanged. The Common Market sighed in relief at this "wise decision."

The facts and figures in both cases were largely the same. The President's decisions were diffeernt. Why?

ACCORDING TO American and European trade experts here, Ford is caught in an election-year squeeze between American workers allegedly hurt by foreign imports and his European allies who depnd on the American market to cure their recession.

So far, they said, Ford seems to be trying to strike a balance, placating voters but avoiding a ruinous trade war.

The big test is yet to come — whether European cars represent unfair competition for American makes, as American unions contend. If the Administration agrees, the decision could damage the European car industry and provoke European retaliation against U.S. exports, touching off that trade war.

Complaints against imports and pressures for protectionism probably are inevitable during a recession as industry and labor in all nations try to protect their positions. But the U.S.-European situation now is aggravated by the new Trade Act of 1974, requiring government investigation and action on any request for protection from American industry or labor.

ALREADY, BATTLES HAVE been fought over European exports ranging from cheese to steel.

The Europeans lost the cheese skirmish when the administration, pressured by U.S. dairy farmers, forced the Common Market to stop giving tax rebates to exporters of cheddar, Danish blue and some other European cheeses. American tactics in this dispute were rough and blunt and left bruised feelings all over Europe.

The Europeans won perhaps the most important decision when the Treasury told complaining American steelmakers sales tax refunds, such as those European steel exporters enjoy, are common in all countries, including the United States, and specifically allowed under international rules.

Since virtually all European exports to the United States get these refunds, a reverse decision could have had enormous impact on European trade with America.

Inventor finds way to blow your (smoke)stack—cleanly

by SHARON RUTENBERG

ZION, Ill. (UPI) — George Hartwick says he has invented a machine that could make the ugly industrial smokestack a thing of the past.

Hartwick says his machine is a self-cleaning gas and smoke dissipater which emits only clean air.

"The industries will no longer need smokestacks when they have this device of mine installed," Hartwick, 70, said in an interview.

To prove it, the inventor — an engineer's cap over graying hair — tossed scraps of an old inner tube into a furnace.

I sniffed. Only hot air with a slight odor poured from the exhaust pipe. Hartwick said even that smell could be eliminated with another filter.

"The industries are going to extreme amounts of money — millions and millions of dollars — and still have smoke coming out of their stacks," Hartwick said.

"I'M DOING AWAY with something — gas and smoke — and returing nothing but clean air."

He gave no exact cost figures but said his unit is made of "very cheap material."

Hartwick's model — about five feet wide, seven feet high and 20 feet long — is in a shop he calls "my private laboratory" about 50 miles north of Chicago.

The unit is divided into two sections — the stoker and furnace in one and the metal dissipater in another. Coal is stored in the stoker and rubber or other burnable substances are thrown into the furnace.

THE DISSIPATER takes out the elements of coal smoke — coal tar, fly ash, sulphur gas and smoke — and returns clean air to the atmosphere.

In the demonstration, burned material traveled through a pipe to the dissipater, where it went through a series of filters. The residue fell into a settling tank, which was recycled by being thrown back into the furance to burn.

Hartwick said he had sent letters to Sen. Charles Percy, R.-Ill., and state Sen. Bill Morris, who have notified governmental agencies about the invention. The Illinois del.

Hartwick said the dissipater can be used in wood-burning saw mills, steel mills, garbage incinerators, junk yards, medical laboratories and at home.

"We're short of oil and natural gas, so we will have to resort back to burning coal," he said.

"And my device will make it possible to burn coal and garbage at home with no smoke."

Ford in balancing act trying to curb trade war

by RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Ford announced that Europe's stainless steel exports to the United States must be cut. The European Common Market screamed in outrage.

Ford announced that European shoe exports to the United States could continue unchanged. The Common Market sighed in relief at this "wise decision."

The facts and figures in both cases were largely the same. The President's decisions were diffeernt. Why?

ACCORDING TO American and European trade experts here, Ford is caught in an election-year squeeze between American workers allegedly hurt by foreign imports and his European allies who depnd on the American market to cure their recession.

So far, they said, Ford seems to be trying to strike a balance, placating voters but avoiding a ruinous trade war.

The big test is yet to come — whether European cars represent unfair competition for American makes, as American unions contend. If the Administration agrees, the decision could damage the European car industry and provoke European retaliation against U.S. exports, touching off that trade war.

Complaints against imports and pressures for protectionism probably are inevitable during a recession as industry and labor in all nations try to protect their positions. But the U.S.-European situation now is aggravated by the new Trade Act of 1974, requiring government investigation and action on any request for protection from American industry or labor.

ALREADY, BATTLES HAVE been fought over European exports ranging from cheese to steel.

The Europeans lost the cheese skirmish when the administration, pressured by U.S. dairy farmers, forced the Common Market to stop giving tax rebates to exporters of cheddar, Danish blue and some other European cheeses. American tactics in this dispute were rough and blunt and left bruised feelings all over Europe.

The Europeans won perhaps the most important decision when the Treasury told complaining American steelmakers sales tax refunds, such as those European steel exporters enjoy, are common in all countries, including the United States, and specifically allowed under international rules.

Since virtually all European exports to the United States get these refunds, a reverse decision could have had enormous impact on European trade with America.

Inventor finds way to blow your (smoke)stack—cleanly

by SHARON RUTENBERG

ZION, Ill. (UPI) — George Hartwick says he has invented a machine that could make the ugly industrial smokestack a thing of the past.

Hartwick says his machine is a self-cleaning gas and smoke dissipater which emits only clean air.

"The industries will no longer need smokestacks when they have this device of mine installed," Hartwick, 70, said in an interview.

To prove it, the inventor — an engineer's cap over graying hair — tossed scraps of an old inner tube into a furnace.

I sniffed. Only hot air with a slight odor poured from the exhaust pipe. Hartwick said even that smell could be eliminated with another filter.

"The industries are going to extreme amounts of money — millions and millions of dollars — and still have smoke coming out of their stacks," Hartwick said.

"I'M DOING AWAY with something — gas and smoke — and returing nothing but clean air."

He gave no exact cost figures but said his unit is made of "very cheap material."

Hartwick's model — about five feet wide, seven feet high and 20 feet long — is in a shop he calls "my private laboratory" about 50 miles north of Chicago.

The unit is divided into two sections — the stoker and furnace in one and the metal dissipater in another. Coal is stored in the stoker and rubber or other burnable substances are thrown into the furnace.

THE DISSIPATER takes out the elements of coal smoke — coal tar, fly ash, sulphur gas and smoke — and returns clean air to the atmosphere.

In the demonstration, burned material traveled through a pipe to the dissipater, where it went through a series of filters. The residue fell into a settling tank, which was recycled by being thrown back into the furance to burn.

Hartwick said he had sent letters to Sen. Charles Percy, R.-Ill., and state Sen. Bill Morris, who have notified governmental agencies about the invention. The Illinois del.

Hartwick said the dissipater can be used in wood-burning saw mills, steel mills, garbage incinerators, junk yards, medical laboratories and at home.

"We're short of oil and natural gas, so we will have to resort back to burning coal," he said.

"And my device will make it possible to burn coal and garbage at home with no smoke."

ARLINGTON'S JOHN Vukovich works in his first win as a relief pitcher. Vukovich, who regularly plays second base, defeated perennial power Fremd last week.

Arlington clips Palatine, Hoffman falls in baseball

A Herald Staff Report

Arlington and Hoffman Estates maintained first place status in their respective divisions following a limited Mid-Suburban League baseball schedule of makeup games Tuesday afternoon.

Arlington held its North lead with a victory, and Hoffman held its South advantage despite a loss to Forest View. The Hawks enjoyed a two-game bulge on runnerup Prospect heading into the battle and the Knights also lost.

Don Stebbins' third straight hit of the game drove in Mike Mayerck with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning as Arlington tipped Palatine, 3-2.

Don Stebbins

Jim Petran

The pitching-dominated contest was a duel between Palatine lefty Bob Baues and Arlington soph Doug Harth, but in the end, it was Cardinal ace John Mertins who earned his fourth triumph with two innings of shutout relief work.

Arlington opened the scoring in the first with Matt Splitt doubling, advancing to third on a passed ball and scoring on a wild pitch, but Palatine earned a 1-1 tie when Al Knotek singled, was balked to second, sacrificed t othird and tallied on an error.

The Cardinals went back on top in the fifth on Stebbins' second hit and a run-scoring Texas-league blooper by Brett Frase, but Palatine rallied again in the sixth on Paul Henkels' base hit and Dan McSweeney's towering sacrifice fly to right.

While Mertins was collaring Palatine by retiring the final six batters, Mike Mayerck drew a one-out walk off Baues in the sixth and carried the clincher home on Stebbins' shot up the middle.

Arlington will carry a 9-1 mark into the Forest View District Thursday while Palatine's league record dipped to 3-5.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Arlington	100	011	x—3-5-1

FALCONS WIN 'MARATHON'

Jim Petran's run-scoring single in the bottom of the seventh gave the Forest View Falcons a 10-9 victory over the visiting Hoffman Estates Hawks.

Ron Wiora, who had walked and moved to second on Tom Lunak's infield hit, scored the winning run off starter and loser Ray Gawron.

Gawron came into the South Division matchup with an earned run average of 0.00 in 28.2 innings. But Forest View changed those zeros, scoring three in the second and six in the third — all earned — to drive Gawron from the mound.

The Hawks, who still maintain first place with a 6-2 record, jumped on starter Joe Slawinski for six runs in the first inning. Slawinski, like Gawron, came back to pitch later in the game, earning the win. Six Falcon mistakes and only two hits by Gawron and Wayne Jackson allowed the Hawks to bat around.

A wild pitch in the second inning made it 7-0. Then the Falcons, now 3-4, began its comeback. A two-run single by Bill Simon and a hit batsman made it 7-3.

After Hoffman went up 8-3 on Gawron's run-scoring single in the third, Forest View rallied to take the lead. Chalking up the RBI were Slawinski, Simon, Petran, Larry Dahl and two by Chris Hanson, whose single made it 8-8.

Hoffman tied the game at 9-9 in the sixth on a two-out single by Joe Gajewski. The visitors failed to take the lead in the seventh when Slawinski struck out a batter with runners on second and third.

Lunak led the Falcons with 3-for-3 at the plate. Gawron was 2-for-4 to pace Hoffman.

Jim Giblin pitched well in relief for Slawinski. He hurled 5-1/3 innings, allowing just two earned runs. Bob Slawek did the same for Hoffman, pitching 2-1/3 innings while allowing just two of the Hawks' six hits at windswept Forest View.

HERSEY WINS, 12-4

Hersey pounded out 14 hits, including four triples and two doubles, and rode the crest of a nifty relief appearance on the mound by Rob Huber to a 12-4 victory over visiting Prospect.

The Huskies broke open a 4-4 deadlock in the fourth inning, Bob Frye delivering the decisive blow, and went on to post their fourth win in six loop tries. The loss left the Knights owning a 5-4 slate.

Prospect touched Huskie starter Dan Stoltz for all four runs in the second. Walks to Dave Thoma, Dave Landes and Burt Thomas were followed by a wild pitch, a single by Keith Kallberg and an error.

An inning earlier Frye had opened with a triple and Mark Knuttel and Chuck Vesilits had added singles to key a four-run outburst by the hosts.

In the fourth Steve Giannini reached on a walk and was balked to second. Frye then slammed out his double for the go-ahead run and he in turn was singled home by Joe Pusatera.

Back-to-back triples by Tom Barnhard and Bob Hart highlighted a two-run rally by Hersey in the fifth. The Huskies put the game out of sight with four more in the sixth, pinch hitter Mark Johnson contributing a triple, Barnhard singling in two and Vesilits doubling in two more.

Huber spelled Stoltz in the fifth and hurled four innings of hitless ball, fanning seven.

FREMD EXPLODES

Fremd exploded for five runs in the top of the seventh inning to salt away a 10-2 triumph over hosting Elk Grove, sending the Grenadiers down to defeat for the 10th straight time this season.

The Vikings backed up a four-hit, 10 strikeout pitching performance by Matt Fox with a dozen hits of their own in moving back to the .500 mark in the Mid-Suburban North race. Fox also spread out seven bases on balls while upping his win-loss slate to 2-0.

The game was close until the seventh. Fremd moved on top in the second on an RBI single by Carl DePaolis but Elk Grove answered right back with a pair — both unearned — when Joe Woelfel's grounder was bobbled with the bases loaded.

Fremd picked up additional single tallies in the third and fourth to go ahead 3-2. Chris Pethley drove home one of the runs and Dale Hallberg singled in the other. In the sixth a bunt single by Fox, a base hit by Ron Leahey, a wild pitch and a passed ball hiked the Vike lead to 5-2.

The crushing rally by the visitors started off with a double by Bill Friskics, an error and a walk to Kerry Field, loading the bases. Steve Peters singled in two, DePaulos singled in two more and Leahey drove home the final run with another base rap.

Dodgers' streak hits 10 with 9-6 win over Cubs

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The Los Angeles Dodgers, with second baseman Dave Lopes in the lineup for the first time all year, brought their nine-game winning streak to Wrigley Field Tuesday and stretched it to 10 with a 9-6 win over the listless Chicago Cubs.

Lopes, who has been on the disabled list since the season began, took his place in the lineup at the leadoff spot and stroked two singles and drove in a run to lead, but not highlight, a 13-hit Dodger attack.

"It's good to be back," Lopes said. "This team has been hot lately and I was just hoping I could contribute.

"Getting that first hit of the year really took a lot of the pressure off, too."

Lopes' first hit of 1976 came in the fourth inning when ever Dodger batter got a look at the plate and Ron Cey's homer and pitcher Burt Hooton's double supplied all the runs the Dodgers were going to need the rest of the way.

Cey finished the afternoon with a 2-for-3 performance and scored the Dodgers' first run of the game in the second when he singled ahead of Henry Cruz's home run.

Hooton shackled his former teammates for three innings before they began picking on his knuckle curve and departed after five and two-third innings with his second win of the year.

Mike Marshall, who kept in shape in the offseason breaking into the gym at Michigan State, came out of the bullpen and notched his first save of the year.

The nine runs and 13 hits the Dodgers produced Tuesday were both season highs and kept them in a dogfight for the National League's Western Division lead with the Cincinnati Reds.

As for the Cubs, well, they dropped below sea level after reaching that heady plateau with a pair of 6-5 extra inning wins over San Francisco Sunday.

They sent themselves below .500 (11-12) by getting nearly as many hits as the Dodgers (12) and then leaving them where they stood.

Chicago stranded 11 men on base and trailed all the way as starter Rick Reuschel lost his second game of the year against one win.

The Cubs got runners to third base in three separate innings without pushing them home and on two occasions they were within a base of scoring without an out and still did not put anything on the board.

Manny Trillo, who was 2-for-5 with two RBIs, punched home the Cubs first run in the second inning when he doubled home Pete LaCock, who had singled.

The double stretched Trillo's hitting streak to 10 games.

Andy Thornton doubled home two more in the fourth as a pinch hitter and Jose Cardenal poked his fourth home run of the year in the fifth for another.

Rick Monday, who was honored before the game for saving an American flag, had a single to drive in another run.

Harper coasts in opener of sectional play

by BOB GALLAS

The Harper Hawks won their opening game in the National Junior College sectional play Tuesday with a 10-4 triumph over Oakton.

The Hawks came up with a respectable effort from their No. 3 starting pitcher, Scott Green, who was backed up by a 16-hit attack by his mates.

The Hawks now sport a 19-7 won-loss record and continue tourney play at 3 p.m. today at Triton where they meet the winner of Tuesday's Mayfair-Triton contest.

The Hawks, after spotting Oakton a 2-0 first-inning lead, scored seven runs in the first three innings to take command.

Dar Townsend and Howard Braver clubbed home runs for the Hawks. Townsend's first inning shot to center was helped by a 20 miles-per-hour wind blowing out and capped a three-run inning. Brauer hit the first pitch thrown to him in the third for a three-run blast that was helped by the wind.

"That's been our trademark, plenty of offense," said Harper coach John Eliasik, talking about Tuesday's win. "It's pitching and defense that have given us problems, although our pitching has looked real good the last week."

Green had trouble in the first and the ninth but pitched well in between. In nine innings, he struck out five and walked only one, scattering eight hits.

Oakton pitcher Mark Elatkin was the victim of the Hawk attack. Elatkin went the distance, walking four and striking out three while giving up 10 runs and 16 hits.

The Hawks scored three in the first inning. Marty Luquet tripled and came home on Dave Patterson's infield out. Tom Good followed with a walk and was on when Townsend hit his homer.

In the second, the Hawks added a run on three hits. With two out, Pete Pavich singled then came home on Steve Raccuigli's double.

Harper posted three more runs in the third when Good and Townsend singled. Townsend then homered to drive in three.

In the fifth, the Hawks scored twice. Good opened with a single and went to second on a single by Townsend. Brauer then walked to load the bases.

But Oakton got good at the plate on Greg Meyer's tap to the pitcher, but couldn't complete the double play at first. Gany Oslance followed with a single to drive in two runs.

The Hawks' last run came in the sixth when Luquet opened with a walk and went to second when Patterson was hit by a pitch. Good then drove in Luquet with a single.

White Sox tip Baltimore, 3-1

From Herald Wire Services

BALTIMORE — See, Wilbur, Baltimore isn't such a bad place to visit after all.

Wilbur Wood hadn't won in Baltimore since June, 1974 when he took the mound Tuesday night, but he changed all that with a masterful effort. And a snappy one at that.

Knuckleballer Wood scattered four hits for his third victory as the White Sox capitalized on two Baltimore errors in the second inning to defeat the Orioles, 3-1.

The game took just two hours and two minutes.

Wood, who has figured in six of the White Sox's 14 decisions this year, struck out seven and walked four in winning the duel from lefty Ken Holtzman, now 2-1.

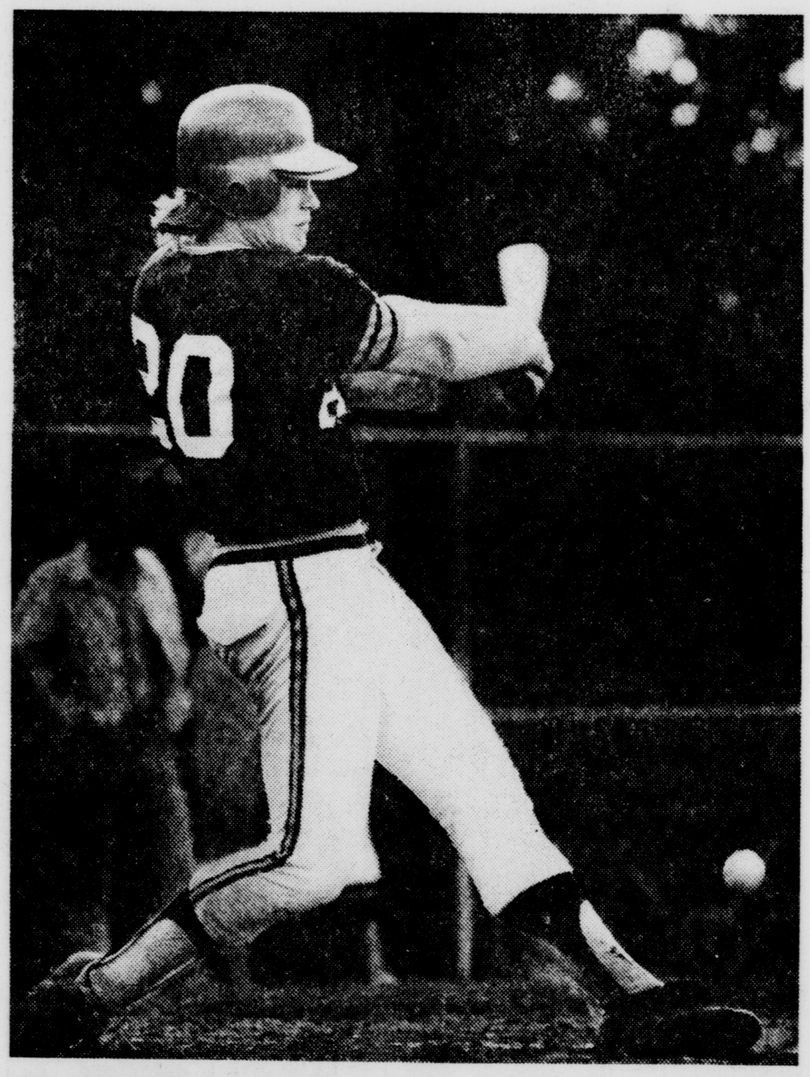
Throwing errors by Holtzman and Oriole catcher Dave Duncan after a walk and an infield single by Buddy Bradford were responsible for the two-run second inning. Lamar Johnson singled across an insurance run for the Sox in the eighth.

Wood, 3-3, notched his fifth complete game in six starts but lost his bid for a shutout in the sixth inning. Ken Singleton ripped a leadoff double and Andres Mora slammed a two-out single.

Bradford and Jorge Orta each had two hits for the White Sox who now are 6-8 for the season.

Manager Paul Richards showed a new look in his lineup with Brian Downing in the designated hitter role, Bill Stein at second, Johnson at first base, and Jim Essian behind the plate.

Chicago and Baltimore hook up again tonight at 6:30.



BOB RAY of Elk Grove fouls off a pitch. The Grenadier cleanup hitter plays first base and pitches.

St. Viator raps 18 hits in 16-4 rout of Carmel

St. Viator rapped out 18 hits and scored in every inning to dump visiting Carmel Tuesday, 16-4.

Nick Baffa, with a 4-for-5 showing and Mike Hermanson with a pair of three-baggers spearheaded the Lion attack. Hermanson notched one of his triples in the first behind singles by Baffa and Mike Maude and the hosts were never headed again.

St. Viator had three four-run innings. In the second Kevin Mulroy and Bill Robin sparked the rally with RBI singles.

In the fifth Mike Dooley drove in a pair of runs with a double to key Viator's effort. Jim Thompson singled home two more runs during a four-run sixth inning outburst.

Jim Simmerman notched the winning decision after receiving relief help on the mound in the sixth from Mark Bonucchi. The two hurlers combined for six strikeouts and only one walk although they did allow the Corsairs to collect 13 safeties.

The triumph was Viator's 15th in 21 contests over-all and upped their conference mark to 8-2.

Arlington clips Palatine, Hoffman falls in baseball

A Herald Staff Report

Arlington and Hoffman Estates maintained first place status in their respective divisions following a limited Mid-Suburban League baseball schedule of makeup games Tuesday afternoon.

Arlington held its North lead with a victory, and Hoffman held its South advantage despite a loss to Forest View. The Hawks enjoyed a two-game bulge on runnerup Prospect heading into the battle and the Knights also lost.

Don Stebbins' third straight hit of the game drove in Mike Mayerck with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning as Arlington tipped Palatine, 3-2.

The pitching-dominated contest was a duel between Palatine lefty Bob Baues and Arlington soph Doug Harth, but in the end, it was Cardinal ace John Mertins who earned his fourth triumph with two innings of shutout relief work.

Arlington opened the scoring in the first with Matt Splitt doubling, advancing to third on a passed ball and scoring on a wild pitch, but Palatine earned a 1-1 tie when Al Knotek singled, was balked to second, sacrificed t othird and tallied on an error.

The Cardinals went back on top in the fifth on Stebbins' second hit and a run-scoring Texas-league blooper by Brett Frase, but Palatine rallied again in the sixth on Paul Henkels' base hit and Dan McSweeney's towering sacrifice fly to right.

While Mertins was collaring Palatine by retiring the final six batters, Mike Mayerck drew a one-out walk off Baues in the sixth and carried the clincher home on Stebbins' shot up the middle.

Arlington will carry a 9-1 mark into the Forest View District Thursday

FALCONS WIN 'MARATHON'

Jim Petran's run-scoring single in the bottom of the seventh gave the Forest View Falcons a 10-9 victory over the visiting Hoffman Estates Hawks.

Ron Wiora, who had walked and moved to second on Tom Lunak's infield hit, scored the winning run off starter and loser Ray Gawron.

Gawron came into the South Division matchup with an earned run average of 0.00 in 28.2 innings. But Forest View changed those zeros, scoring three in the second and six in the third — all earned — to drive Gawron from the mound.

The Hawks, who still maintain first place with a 6-2 record, jumped on starter Joe Slawinski for six runs in the first inning. Slawinski, like Gawron, came back to pitch later in the game, earning the win. Six Falcon mistakes and only two hits by Gawron and Wayne Jackson allowed the Hawks to bat around.

A wild pitch in the second inning made it 7-0. Then the Falcons, now 3-4, began its comeback. A two-run single by Bill Simon and a hit batsman made it 7-3.

After Hoffman went up 8-3 on Gawron's run-scoring single in the third, Forest View rallied to take the lead. Chalking up the RBI were Slawinski, Simon, Petran, Larry Dahl and two by Chris Hanson, whose single made it 8-8.

A downhill run on Mt. Everest

Ever dream of having a ski run all to yourself? Miles and miles of powder to make Alta's look mushy? A solid-ice base packed by three stories of new snow?

No waiting at the chairlifts. In fact, no chairlifts. This run can be climbed on foot. In fact, only on foot.

It is a bracing walk. One hundred and eighty-five miles straight up.

You will, of course, need to pack a lunch — 30 tons or it. You will need transportation — shoes with nails in them, 20 miles of nylon rope, and ice bridges to cross holes in the ground three miles deep.

It's probably the most expensive ski lift in the world. Several million yen or three-quarters of a million dollars gives you an all-day ticket. There is no ski patrol, so you will have to take along your own — 700 Sherpas. Never mind a litter basket. If anything goes wrong, they won't find you till the earth melts.

The ski run I'm talking about is hardly an intermediate run on the slopes of the Sierra, it's a downhill run from the face of Mt. Everest — or, as you might say, from the top of the world to the end of your life. Don't bother to bring your ski waxws. You could go down this thing on sandpaper, it's so steep. Never mind your slalom edges. Bring a parachute. You can't really schuss it, either. All you try to do is stay on the mountain.

"The Man Who Skied Down Everest," from the Academy Award-winning movie of the same name, is Yuichiro Miura, a Japanese who once schussed down Mt. Fuji and set a world ski speed record in 1964 in Italy of 108 m.p.h.

He would have shattered that speed mark coming down Everest were it not for the drogue chute he opened as he started his mad plunge down the cornice of the world.

It is not likely that Miura left any moguls in the ice of Everest, because he hurtled down that sheet of blue ice at the breakneck pace of a guy falling out of an airplane. He probably reached speeds of 180 m.p.h. before his chute opened and slowed him down to where he was at least a blur on the cameras.

He skied 6,600 feet, fell 1,320 feet, and came to rest 25 feet before a deep crevasse known in German as the "Hund of the Mountains." Miura's engineers had no idea if and when his chute would properly open. He started his run at 26,500 feet and slid to a stop a mile and a half or so below where he crashed headon into an outcropping of rock probably as big as an office building.

No one had ever climbed where he skied down and it had taken months to get him up there. It is computed that he had to go in places from near-vertical to at best a 50-degree grade.

If he had plunged into the crevasse, it would have been the seventh fatality of the expedition. Six Sherpas perished in the treacherous icefall of the Khombu Glacier, the "Graveyard of the Himalayas," four square miles of jagged ice which can bury a man — or an army — in an instant. It was the worst single accident in the history of the Himalayas. Miura's run was dearly paid for.

As a stunt, it was magnificent. At 26,500 feet, a man is not a man. He is a yak, a bovine creature to whom thought is all but impossible, life is insupportable, and the mountain is a white limbo where time is suspended. You are sustained only by your own obsession when above Everest's South Col and fasten your helmet for the Ultimate Giant Slalom.

It is not likely anybody else's sizmarks will ever dot this course. It is not likely Jean-Claude Killy will try to better Miura's time. The Winter Olympic will remain in Lake Placid. Sun Valley, it's not. It is like surfboarding down Victoria Falls, or roller-skating down the Empire State Building from the outside. No one ever climbed a 185-mile rope tow for a one-minute run before.

Still, I guess guys ski 8,000-meter mountains for the same reason they climb them — because they're there.

Leaders sweep in MSL tennis

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis editor

The top three teams in the Mid-Suburban League, Arlington, Prospect and Forest View, all swept their opponents 5-0 Tuesday in a full card of league tennis action.

Arlington's Cardinals cleared out a little room at the top as they shut out Palatine, dropping the Pirates to fifth place in the MSL

Palatine put up their best fight in the doubles brackets where both went to three sets before Arlington prevailed.

Jerry McNabney and Kevin Kunzweiler of Palatine engaged Arlington's Mike Doering and Carl Horn in a real dogfight at No. 1 doubles before the Cardinals came out with a 7-5, 5-7, 6-3 win.

Bob Pionke and Blair Johnson also went to three sets before beating Palatine's Jim Lillibridge and Mike Franzen 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.

Prospect's Knights handled Schaumburg 5-0 without going beyond two sets in any match.

Paul Mallon and Jim Bryja swept their No. 1 doubles match in good order, 6-0, 6-0.

Dan Hanson, Dave Hughson and Jim Chelberg all collected singles wins for the Knights.

Still, head coach Jim Gelhaar thought his team looked a little slugish.

"They didn't play as well as I wanted them to," he said, "But I think they'll be better by Thursday (when Prospect hosts Forest View)."

The Falcons tuned up for their meeting with Prospect by handling Buffalo Grove, 5-0.

Like Prospect, the Falcons took all five matches in straight sets to improve their MSL record to 8-1 and give them a solid hold on third place.

Dave O'Donnell was very sharp at No. 1 singles, winning his match 6-1, 6-0.

The loss dropped the Bison's MSL mark to 6-5.

Hersey's improving Huskies moved into fourth place in the league with a 6-4 record as they stopped Conant, 4-1.

Head coach Bruce Starek got straight set victories from his singles players, Keith Rayner, Jim Huck and Jeff Groover and was especially pleased with his No. 1 doubles tandem of Bill Rymsza and Kip Hahn.

"They've both been coming on," Starek said. "Hanh's progress has been very impressive. He used only two second services tonight."

Rolling Meadows made it five straight in the MSL with their 4-1 triumph over Elk Grove.

The win leveled the Mustangs' season mark at 5-5 and put them in seventh place in the league standings.

Elk Grove's only point came at No. 3 singles when Gary Christiansen handled Steve Duffy 6-1, 6-3.

The other Meadows singles players, Brad Weber and Dave Bohac, scored straight set wins.

Bill Curran and Dave Mack forced the Mustangs' Kent Walker and Jeff Corrado to three sets at No. 1 doubles before losing 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The Fremd Vikings went over .500 for the season with a 4-1 win at Hoffman Estates, elevating their MSL record to 5-4.

The Vikes' doubles teams of Bruce Funk and Jack Needha at No. 1 and Scott Adashek and Jim Butzen at No. 2 both wracked up impressive straight set wins.

Hoffman's Paul Harshbarger averted the sweep at No. 3 singles with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Mark Smith.

Jeff Davenport held his own, winnint 6-1, 6-3 at No. 1 singles, but Carmel took the rest of the matches to down St. Viator 4-1 in East Suburban Catholic action.

Vartanian's 9.9 highlights meet

by ART MUGALIAN

Just about everybody got what they wanted Tuesday when Forest View's track team ran up against Libertyville in a triangular meet at Rolling Meadows.

Libertyville got its 23rd and 24th straight dual-meet victories, Jim Vartanian recorded a (wind-aided) 09.9 in the 100-yard dash, and Tim Green got to run against Steve Schellenberger — twice, in fact.

Tom Tunnicliff and Jim Lenzini paced the Libertyville victory, each taking a pair of firsts as the Wildcats scored 68 points to Forest View's 59 and Meadows' 50. The host Mustangs might have made the team scores a whole lot closer, but junior speedster Rick Sutton was out of action because of blisters.

Tunnicliff won the 440 in :53.0 and maintained his own undefeated record in the 220 in a wind-aided :22.0, beating Falcon soph Kurt Jones (:22.6) and Mustang Dave Boursaw (:22.9).

Lenzini, only a junior and one of the best weightmen in the state, put the shot 55-4¼ for an easy victory, but had to rely on his last throw in the discus to eke out a first place in that event. His best was 153-3, surpassing Randy Gaitsch of Forest View who threw 144-4.

Vartanian, meanwhile, ran his :09.9 with the wind to beat Tunnicliff and Boursaw in the 100, unofficially tying the Forest View record. The Falcon senior also won the high hurdles in :15.1 despite complaining of illness both before and after the meet.

One watch had Vartanian if :09.8 as he streaked across the finish line in the 100, finishing ahead of Boursaw (:09.95), Tunnicliff (:10.0) and Jones (:10.1). A strong gale blew steadily out of the south.

Boursaw managed to win the long jump with a leap of 20-8¾, just a fraction ahead of Mike Harvey of forest View (20-8). Harvey came back for a win in the triple jump (42-1).

Green, Libertyville's 2:00-flat half-miler, had hoped to be able to lower his personal best in a match race with state's defending champ who had clocked a 1:53.4 last Friday.

But Schellenberger, who jumped into the race at the last minute, went out at a snail's pace and ran the first quarter in :66 as Green elected to stay right behind. The dueal turned into a sprint in the final 150 yards as Schellenberger won by a length in 2:09.3

Green and Schellenberger locked up in another battle in the 330-yard low hurdles, but this time Green won with a :40.3 Schellenberger, running the event for the first time in competition, ran a creditable :40.8 for a second place.

Maine West surges but still falls

Maine West battled back from an eight-run deficit but were still nipped at the wire by the defending state champs from Niles West Tuesday, 10-9.

Warrior starting twirler Buddy Doroskin ran into a buzzsaw in the opening two frames and the reliever Ron Rausch also had some early trouble while the Indians were building up a 10-2 advantage.

The Niles lead was trimmed to four in the fifth.

Rob Earhart and Glenn Watson opened with base hits. Tim Platek then tripled them both home and was in turn knocked in on Sandri's single.

After a passed ball, Doug Unzicker delivered another single and Sandri scored.

In the seventh an error off the bat of Carpenter and a single by Wayne Wishnew preceded Bob Zuccarini's circuit blow, a shot over the fence in left center.

There was only one out at the time of Zuccarini's homer and Matt Serna subsequently walked but Earhart was tossed out when the Niles West second baseman came up with a nifty play. Watson was barely beat out at first on a slow roller to end the threat.

The loss was the second absorbed by the Warriors in eight league games but allowed them to retain their lead in the Central Suburban South. They are 9-3-2 over-all.

A downhill run on Mt. Everest

Ever dream of having a ski run all to yourself? Miles and miles of powder to make Alta's look mushy? A solid-ice base packed by three stories of new snow?

No waiting at the chairlifts. In fact, no chairlifts. This run can be climbed on foot. In fact, only on foot.

It is a bracing walk. One hundred and eighty-five miles straight up.

You will, of course, need to pack a lunch — 30 tons or it. You will need transportation — shoes with nails in them, 20 miles of nylon rope, and ice bridges to cross holes in the ground three miles deep.

It's probably the most expensive ski lift in the world. Several million yen or three-quarters of a million dollars gives you an all-day ticket. There is no ski patrol, so you will have to take along your own — 700 Sherpas. Never mind a litter basket. If anything goes wrong, they won't find you till the earth melts.

The ski run I'm talking about is hardly an intermediate run on the slopes of the Sierra, it's a downhill run from the face of Mt. Everest — or, as you might say, from the top of the world to the end of your life. Don't bother to bring your ski waxws. You could go down this thing on sandpaper, it's so steep. Never mind your slalom edges. Bring a parachute. You can't really schuss it, either. All you try to do is stay on the mountain.

"The Man Who Skied Down Everest," from the Academy Award-winning movie of the same name, is Yuichiro Miura, a Japanese who once schussed down Mt. Fuji and set a world ski speed record in 1964 in Italy of 108 m.p.h.

He would have shattered that speed mark coming down Everest were it not for the drogue chute he opened as he started his mad plunge down the cornice of the world.

It is not likely that Miura left any moguls in the ice of Everest, because he hurtled down that sheet of blue ice at the breakneck pace of a guy falling out of an airplane. He probably reached speeds of 180 m.p.h. before his chute opened and slowed him down to where he was at least a blur on the cameras.

He skied 6,600 feet, fell 1,320 feet, and came to rest 25 feet before a deep crevasse known in German as the "Hund of the Mountains." Miura's engineers had no idea if and when his chute would properly open. He started his run at 26,500 feet and slid to a stop a mile and a half or so below where he crashed headon into an outcropping of rock probably as big as an office building.

No one had ever climbed where he skied down and it had taken months to get him up there. It is computed that he had to go in places from near-vertical to at best a 50-degree grade.

If he had plunged into the crevasse, it would have been the seventh fatality of the expedition. Six Sherpas perished in the treacherous icefall of the Khombu Glacier, the "Graveyard of the Himalayas," four square miles of jagged ice which can bury a man — or an army — in an instant. It was the worst single accident in the history of the Himalayas. Miura's run was dearly paid for.

As a stunt, it was magnificent. At 26,500 feet, a man is not a man. He is a yak, a bovine creature to whom thought is all but impossible, life is insupportable, and the mountain is a white limbo where time is suspended. You are sustained only by your own obsession when above Everest's South Col and fasten your helmet for the Ultimate Giant Slalom.

It is not likely anybody else's sizmarks will ever dot this course. It is not likely Jean-Claude Killy will try to better Miura's time. The Winter Olympic will remain in Lake Placid. Sun Valley, it's not. It is like surfboarding down Victoria Falls, or roller-skating down the Empire State Building from the outside. No one ever climbed a 185-mile rope tow for a one-minute run before.

Still, I guess guys ski 8,000-meter mountains for the same reason they climb them — because they're there.

Leaders sweep in MSL tennis

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis editor

The top three teams in the Mid-Suburban League, Arlington, Prospect and Forest View, all swept their opponents 5-0 Tuesday in a full card of league tennis action.

Arlington's Cardinals cleared out a little room at the top as they shut out Palatine, dropping the Pirates to fifth place in the MSL

Palatine put up their best fight in the doubles brackets where both went to three sets before Arlington prevailed.

Jerry McNabney and Kevin Kunzweiler of Palatine engaged Arlington's Mike Doering and Carl Horn in a real dogfight at No. 1 doubles before the Cardinals came out with a 7-5, 5-7, 6-3 win.

Bob Pionke and Blair Johnson also went to three sets before beating Palatine's Jim Lillibridge and Mike Franzen 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.

Prospect's Knights handled Schaumburg 5-0 without going beyond two sets in any match.

Paul Mallon and Jim Bryja swept their No. 1 doubles match in good order, 6-0, 6-0.

Dan Hanson, Dave Hughson and Jim Chelberg all collected singles wins for the Knights.

Still, head coach Jim Gelhaar thought his team looked a little slugish.

"They didn't play as well as I wanted them to," he said, "But I think they'll be better by Thursday (when Prospect hosts Forest View)."

The Falcons tuned up for their meeting with Prospect by handling Buffalo Grove, 5-0.

Like Prospect, the Falcons took all five matches in straight sets to improve their MSL record to 8-1 and give them a solid hold on third place.

Dave O'Donnell was very sharp at No. 1 singles, winning his match 6-1, 6-0.

The loss dropped the Bison's MSL mark to 6-5.

Hersey's improving Huskies moved into fourth place in the league with a 6-4 record as they stopped Conant, 4-1.

Head coach Bruce Starek got straight set victories from his singles players, Keith Rayner, Jim Huck and Jeff Groover and was especially pleased with his No. 1 doubles tandem of Bill Rymsza and Kip Hahn.

"They've both been coming on," Starek said. "Hanh's progress has been very impressive. He used only two second services tonight."

Rolling Meadows made it five straight in the MSL with their 4-1 triumph over Elk Grove.

The win leveled the Mustangs' season mark at 5-5 and put them in seventh place in the league standings.

Elk Grove's only point came at No. 3 singles when Gary Christiansen handled Steve Duffy 6-1, 6-3.

The other Meadows singles players, Brad Weber and Dave Bohac, scored straight set wins.

Bill Curran and Dave Mack forced the Mustangs' Kent Walker and Jeff Corrado to three sets at No. 1 doubles before losing 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The Fremd Vikings went over .500 for the season with a 4-1 win at Hoffman Estates, elevating their MSL record to 5-4.

The Vikes' doubles teams of Bruce Funk and Jack Needha at No. 1 and Scott Adashek and Jim Butzen at No. 2 both wracked up impressive straight set wins.

Hoffman's Paul Harshbarger averted the sweep at No. 3 singles with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Mark Smith.

Jeff Davenport held his own, winnint 6-1, 6-3 at No. 1 singles, but Carmel took the rest of the matches to down St. Viator 4-1 in East Suburban Catholic action.

Vartanian's 9.9 highlights meet

by ART MUGALIAN

Just about everybody got what they wanted Tuesday when Forest View's track team ran up against Libertyville in a triangular meet at Rolling Meadows.

Libertyville got its 23rd and 24th straight dual-meet victories, Jim Vartanian recorded a (wind-aided) 09.9 in the 100-yard dash, and Tim Green got to run against Steve Schellenberger — twice, in fact.

Tom Tunnicliff and Jim Lenzini paced the Libertyville victory, each taking a pair of firsts as the Wildcats scored 68 points to Forest View's 59 and Meadows' 50. The host Mustangs might have made the team scores a whole lot closer, but junior speedster Rick Sutton was out of action because of blisters.

Tunnicliff won the 440 in :53.0 and maintained his own undefeated record in the 220 in a wind-aided :22.0, beating Falcon soph Kurt Jones (:22.6) and Mustang Dave Boursaw (:22.9).

Lenzini, only a junior and one of the best weightmen in the state, put the shot 55-4¼ for an easy victory, but had to rely on his last throw in the discus to eke out a first place in that event. His best was 153-3, surpassing Randy Gaitsch of Forest View who threw 144-4.

Vartanian, meanwhile, ran his :09.9 with the wind to beat Tunnicliff and Boursaw in the 100, unofficially tying the Forest View record. The Falcon senior also won the high hurdles in :15.1 despite complaining of illness both before and after the meet.

One watch had Vartanian if :09.8 as he streaked across the finish line in the 100, finishing ahead of Boursaw (:09.95), Tunnicliff (:10.0) and Jones (:10.1). A strong gale blew steadily out of the south.

Boursaw managed to win the long jump with a leap of 20-8¾, just a fraction ahead of Mike Harvey of forest View (20-8). Harvey came back for a win in the triple jump (42-1).

Green, Libertyville's 2:00-flat half-miler, had hoped to be able to lower his personal best in a match race with state's defending champ who had clocked a 1:53.4 last Friday.

But Schellenberger, who jumped into the race at the last minute, went out at a snail's pace and ran the first quarter in :66 as Green elected to stay right behind. The dueal turned into a sprint in the final 150 yards as Schellenberger won by a length in 2:09.3

Green and Schellenberger locked up in another battle in the 330-yard low hurdles, but this time Green won with a :40.3 Schellenberger, running the event for the first time in competition, ran a creditable :40.8 for a second place.

Maine West surges but still falls

Maine West battled back from an eight-run deficit but were still nipped at the wire by the defending state champs from Niles West Tuesday, 10-9.

Warrior starting twirler Buddy Doroskin ran into a buzzsaw in the opening two frames and the reliever Ron Rausch also had some early trouble while the Indians were building up a 10-2 advantage.

Maine scoring during that period occurred during the second frame when Rick Sandri singled, Russ Kleisner walked, both advanced on a wild pitch and Dean Carpenter singled them in.

The Niles lead was trimmed to four in the fifth.

Rob Earhart and Glenn Watson opened with base hits. Tim Platek then tripled them both home and was in turn knocked in on Sandri's single.

After a passed ball, Doug Unzicker delivered another single and Sandri scored.

In the seventh an error off the bat of Carpenter and a single by Wayne Wishnew preceded Bob Zuccarini's circuit blow, a shot over the fence in left center.

There was only one out at the time of Zuccarini's homer and Matt Serna subsequently walked but Earhart was tossed out when the Niles West second baseman came up with a nifty play. Watson was barely beat out at first on a slow roller to end the threat.

The loss was the second absorbed by the Warriors in eight league games but allowed them to retain their lead in the Central Suburban South. They are 9-3-2 over-all.

Academy offers sessions this summer for golfers

Young golfers between the ages of 10 and 17 interested in improving their game as well as having a great time this summer would do well to look at the Silver Sands Junior Golf Academy in Delavan, Wis.

The camp is located in southeastern Wisconsin on the shores of Lake Delavan. It is an ideal setting for golf and recreation.

Each student receives personal individual instruction from the Silver Sands staff.

Each aspect of golf — woods, irons, chipping and putting — are explored.

The camp also utilizes video tape cameras so the players can see their mistakes and improvements instantly.

The instructors will spend several hours each day explaining, correcting and demonstrating to give each golfer a clear understanding of his golf swing.

A true camaraderie develops during camp between student and staff. The camp motto is "people make the difference" and each member of the staff is selected not only for their dedication to golf and proven teaching ability but also because they exhibit and demonstrate patience, understanding and insight while working with junior golfers.

Each days' practice is supplemented with at least 18 holes of golf on the several challenging courses within minutes of the Silver Sands camp.

The best is the Abbey Springs Country Club, a 6,506 yard course nicknamed the "Golfball Gobbler."

The course is lined on 14 of its 18 holes with towering oaks, making a precision tee shot a must.

The course is the site of the $55,000 Charmglow Pro-Am celebrity golf tournament, the world's richest one-day event.

But golf is not the whole story at Silver Sands. There is plenty of time to make friends and take part in a wide variety of outdoor activities.

Free time may be devoted to swimming, fishing, sailing, canoeing or just relaxing in the sun.

There are also facilities for softball, volleyball and basketball.

The shores of Lake Delavan are put to use for golf, also. By hitting floatable golf balls off the beach into the lake the golfer learns first hand how to master the tricky sand blast.

Enrollment fees are $345 for a two week session and $185 for the one week course. The full amount is due June 1 and includes everything — rooms in a plush dormitory, meals, green fees and instruction.

Two or more students enrolling as a group or from the same family are each entitled to a $10 discount for the one week session and $15 for the two week session.

For a copy of the camp brochure or if you have any questions about the Silver Sands Junior Golf Academy please call 414-728-6120.

Des Plaines issues baseball uniforms

Wednesday, May 5 has been designated Uniform Night for all Des Plaines West Park Little League parents. Parents are requested to come to Terrace School, 735 S. Westgate Rd., Des Plaines. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. Managers will be present to issue your child's uniform only at this time.

Butler course promises 'no easing up'

A demanding course which puts a heavy premium on consistent accuracy both with woods and irons, Butler National Golf Club promises no "easing up" on the professional golf stars who will compete in the 73rd Western Open Championship June 24-27 in suburban Oak Brook.

The 7,002-yard layout, which figuratively "lowered the boon" on scores of fine players in the 1974 and 1975 Westerns, will be in excellent shape. So say the assistant pro, Don Kubiak, and the course superintendent, Ed Fischer.

Winter snows have had a beneficial effect on the course according to Fischer, a certified superintendent. Kubiak said: "The greens and fairways are in fine shape. S small trap has been added to the fifth hole, and the green area slightly reshaped but, all in all, the course will play much as it did last year."

Dubbed "Battling Butler" by some players, and "Boogie Man Butler" by others, the Oak Brook course has been rated the most difficult one in the Chicago District. The accuracy of this rating is attested by some scores registered both in the 1974 Western, the first time the classic was played there, and the 1975 Western Open.

Tom Watson won his initial tour championship in the 1974 Western and his 72-hole total, 287, was the three-over par. There were 29 stars, numbering some of the finest in the game, who that year shot from 289 to 300 for the distance over the 36-35-71 par layout. A course that one star said "can raise up suddenly and bite you bad," the final scores showed a 69 for Miller Barber on the second round — followed by horrendous rounds of 85 and 75 that tied him for 46th.

Last summer, Hale Irwin won the $40,000 first money with a total of 283, one-under par. Only one player, runner-up Bobby Cole, equalled par of 284. The defending champion, Watson, did no better than tie for 12th with six other players, one o them aforementioned Miller Barber.

For the fans, there will be a lot of the exciting "sameness" in this year's Western Open. The yardage and par will be the same, 7002 yards, 36-35—71. The winding Salt Creek and the two lakes will present the same problems. And the purse for this 73rd Western will be the same as in 1975 — a fat $200,000.

The 7,002-yard layout, which figuratively "lowered the boon" on scores of fine players in the 1974 and 1975 Westerns, will be in excellent shape. So say the assistant pro, Don Kubiak, and the course superintendent, Ed Fischer.

Winter snows have had a beneficial effect on the course according to Fischer, a certified superintendent. Kubiak said: "The greens and fairways are in fine shape. S small trap has been added to the fifth hole, and the green area slightly reshaped but, all in all, the course will play much as it did last year."

Dubbed "Battling Butler" by some players, and "Boogie Man Butler" by others, the Oak Brook course has been rated the most difficult one in the Chicago District. The accuracy of this rating is attested by some scores registered both in the 1974 Western, the first time the classic was played there, and the 1975 Western Open.

Tom Watson won his initial tour championship in the 1974 Western and his 72-hole total, 287, was the three-over par. There were 29 stars, numbering some of the finest in the game, who that year shot from 289 to 300 for the distance over the 36-35-71 par layout. A course that one star said "can raise up suddenly and bite you bad," the final scores showed a 69 for Miller Barber on the second round — followed by horrendous rounds of 85 and 75 that tied him for 46th.

Last summer, Hale Irwin won the $40,000 first money with a total of 283, one-under par. Only one player, runner-up Bobby Cole, equalled par of 284. The defending champion, Watson, did no better than tie for 12th with six other players, one o them aforementioned Miller Barber.

For the fans, there will be a lot of the exciting "sameness" in this year's Western Open. The yardage and par will be the same, 7002 yards, 36-35—71. The winding Salt Creek and the two lakes will present the same problems. And the purse for this 73rd Western will be the same as in 1975 — a fat $200,000.

Player-coach Hundley helps Cubs many ways

by ED SAINSBURY

When the Chicago Cubs decided to sign onetime star catcher Randy Hundley as a free agent, the team got a double dividend.

Hundley has turned out to be a player-coach without portfolio.

He's been valuable as a part-time catcher and a pinch hitter, but whether he's been in the game or not, he's been valuable as a sounding board and advisor to regular catcher Steve Swish and almost all the pitchers.

It's commonplace to find Hundley in conference with Swisher or one of the pitchers of te day in the locker room after a game.

All of the advice has come without instruction from Manager Jim Marshall, but without his objection.

"When we decided to sign him," Marshall said, "We knew he was the type of person who would help any way he could, and talking to Swisher and the pitchers would be a way he could help."

"I'm just a player," Hundley said, "But if I can help by talking to Steve or the pitchers, I want to di it. I know what Steve is going through, and I try to share it with him. Just to be somebody he can come and talk to. I think that he gets some things off his chest, and feels better about them.

"I don't talk to him about hitting. That's Lew Fonseca's job.

"But I talk to him about his defensive play, his work with the pitchers, calling pitches, and encourage him.

"With the pitchers I talk about unique situations, so that I can find out what the pitcher is thinking. We had one of those and he ended up with the wrong kind of pitch, and the difference meant the winning run.

"That's the type of thing a lot of people don't realize, and a lot of times, even the pitcher doesn't realize it. I try to help him learn the game situations, so that he doesn't go on making the same mistakes. It's just anything I can do to help with this and the mental aspects."

Hundley, 33, has the experience to help in almost any category. He was with the Cubs eight years before he was traded to Minnesota, went on to San Diego, and after his unconditional release, signed on again with the Cubs as a free agent after a spring tryout.

Along the way, he injured his right knee, had an operation on it, and still keeps it wrapped with elastic bandage, on and off the field.

"The knee isn't 100 per cent," he said. "but it's 90 per cent or better. I can do most things about as well as ever."

It hasn't interfered with his hitting, and he still can work effectively behind the plate. "He gives us bench strength, and he can hit and work some behind the plate," Marshall said. "We think he can help us."

So far he has, on and off the field.

SAVAGE IS LOOSE. Palatine's Jim Savage winds up in the discus throw at Cougar Track Classic at Conant High School. Savage was competing in Class C of the discus, which was won by Paul Schmidt of Naperville Central with a toss of 118-3.

Ask Andy

Insect animal kingdom member

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Mike Meserve, 10, of Standish, Me., for his question:
ARE INSECTS ANIMALS?

Animals come in all sizes and shapes. They can be found in all parts of the world flying, crawling, swimming, walking, hopping or just sitting in one spot. The variety of animal life is almost endless, ranging from single-celled organisms to creatures larger than two railroad boxcars. Exactly how many different kinds of animals there are, no one knows. But if a planetary census could be taken, scientists are fairly sure the insects would head the list.

Yes, insects are animals, So are slugs, spiders, centipedes and earthworms. And of all the creatures in the animal kingdom, the insects are the most numerous. Except for the oceans and the extreme polar regions, they can be found everywhere.

Scientists have identifed almost a million kinds of animals. Some 55,000 of these are the animals with backbones. This group includes the birds, fish, reptiles, amphibians and mammals. The latest census of the insect world, however, stands at 730,500 different species. And the list grows daily as new species are identified.

Insects differ from other animals basically in three ways. First, insects have three district body parts — the head, thorax and abdomen. Second, insects possess a pair of antennae attached to their head. And last, insects have three distinct body parts — the from their thorax. No other animal has the right combination of these features to qualify as a member of this group.

Long before mammals began to roam the surface of the earth, insects were here. During the last part of the Paleozoic Era, more than 310 million years ago, giant insects lived in the lush fern forests. Many proved so adept at living in a changing world that they have survived almost unchanged from these early prehistoric times to now.

Insects differ from each other in a number of ways. Some have wings, while others are earthbound. Although most of the winged species have two pairs of wings, the large group that includes the flies and mosquitoes has only one pair. And while it is true that all insects develop from eggs, in a few species the eggs develop within the body of the female and living young are born.

Most insects pass through four distrinct stages in their life cycle.From an egg they hatch into a larva that looks nothing like the adult. After a time the larva changes into a pupa. From the pupa the adult insect emerges, and the cycle begins again. Some insects hatch from the egg looking like miniature adults.

No matter how individual species of insects differ, they all possess the characteristics that place them in the insect group. They all have three distrinct body parts, a pair of antennae and six legs. Even in their immature larval or nymph form they can still be identified as insects.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Linda Souza, 12, of Visalia, Calif., for her question:
WHY DOES THE FEMALE BLACK WIDOW SPIDER EAT HER MATE?

The female black widow spider has a bed reputation for devouring her mate. Why she bears such a ferocious grudge against him is easily answered. In spiderdom, a good meal is hard to come by, and the much smaller male seems as good a dinner as anything else. Truth is, however, her ladyship frequently allows her timid mate to retreat safely, probably because the almost hypnotic trance she is in during mating remains until he is gone.

The male black widow senses when his female counterpart is well fed and responsive to his overtures. As he crawls up the web, he is alert to any impolite behavior on her part. Sensing none, he approaches her and begins stroking her soothingly. He then wraps her up in silken thread and mating ensues. Although she could break out of her gossamer blanket at any time, she goes along with the rite peaceably enough. Usually, that is. Sometimes, as her name implies, she claims her mate as her next victim.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

When the Life Master category was established in 1936 David Bruce was made number one and Oswald Jacoby number two.

David retired from serious tournament play around 1940, but before doing so he had established himself as one of the game's most knowledgeable players.

Playing with Oswald Jacoby in the 1934 Men's pairs which they won, Dave found himself in six notrump after simple 1934 bidding.

After studying the dummy carefully Dave decided on that very rare thing in match points — a safety play to guard against a 4-0 suit break. Therefore, after winning the first spade lead in dummy, Dave led a low club and inserted his nine spot after East played low. The result proved Dave right. He made six notrump for a top score. Furthermore, a later check of the other results showed that there was just one other pair in six notrump. If clubs had broken, the trick Dave would have given away would have cost him just half a match point.

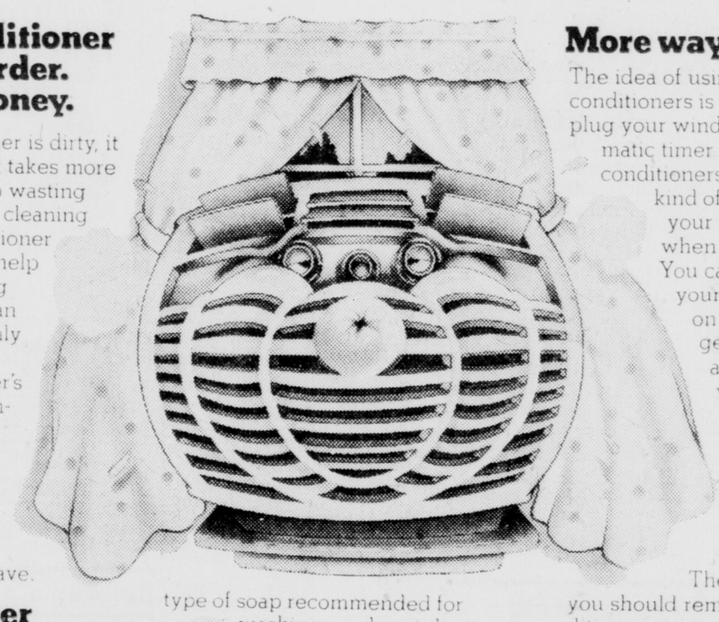
A dirty air conditioner has to work harder. That wastes money.

When your air conditioner is dirty, it has to work harder. That takes more energy. And you end up wasting money. A good periodic cleaning will make your air conditioner more efficient, and will help you save on its operating costs. It's possible to clean most window units in only about 10 minutes. You should check your owner's manual for specific cleaning and maintenance instructions, but in most cases the steps to follow in cleaning are very simple. And the more thoroughly you clean, the more money you'll save.



Vacuum the filter and save a little.

First pull the plug. Then take off the front panel, and carefully remove the filter. You can vacuum it while it's still in place, but it's easier to clean the filter well if you remove it first.

Wash the filter and save a little more.

Your owner's manual will tell you whether the filter in your air conditioner is the kind that can be washed and reused. If it is, you can get the filter even cleaner by first vacuuming it, and then hand washing it in warm water and a gentle detergent. The type of soap recommended for washing woolens is best suited to this job.

Save on central air.

If you've got central air conditioning in your home, there are several steps you can take to keep your central air system running efficiently. Remember to clean or replace your furnace filters regularly. Clear away any debris from around the outdoor unit. And keep grass and shrubs trimmed back to 12 inches away from any working parts.

A call for help may help you save.

If you've had your air conditioner for several years and have never cleaned it before, it could take a qualified serviceman to perform the kind of maintenance and repairs that may be necessary. In an older unit the condenser coil, refrigerant charge, and motor parts may need expert attention.

More ways to save.

The idea of using timers on air conditioners is catching on. You can plug your window unit into an automatic timer made especially for air conditioners. It works just like the kind of timer you'd use to turn your lights on automatically when you're away from home. You can set the timer so that your air conditioner comes on an hour or so before you get home from work on a hot summer day. That way your house will be comfortable when you arrive, but you'll be using less electricity. And your air conditioner won't be running all day long.

There's one last thing you should remember about air conditioners, especially if you're thinking about buying a new one.

Air conditioner efficiency varies from model to model, depending on what we call the Energy Efficiency Ratio, or EER. The higher the EER, the more cooling you get for your electric dollar, year after year. It's easy to figure out the EER. Attached to every air conditioner is a metal plate showing that machine's watts and BTU's. To get the EER, just divide the watts into the BTU's. We recommend an EER of 8 or more.

The more efficiently you use energy, the less energy you waste, and the more money you save. And an efficient air conditioner can save you plenty.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

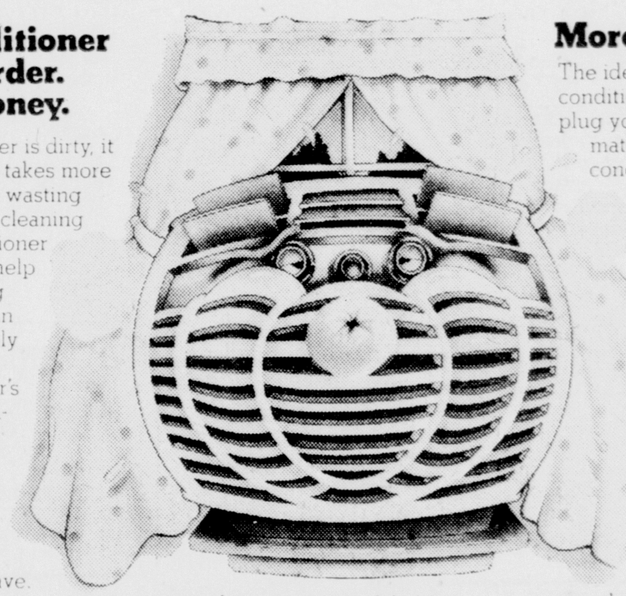
Clean your air conditioner and save some money.



A dirty air conditioner has to work harder. That wastes money.

When your air conditioner is dirty, it has to work harder. That takes more energy. And you end up wasting money. A good periodic cleaning will make your air conditioner more efficient, and will help you save on its operating costs. It's possible to clean most window units in only about 10 minutes. You should check your owner's manual for specific cleaning and maintenance instructions, but in most cases the steps to follow in cleaning are very simple. And the more thoroughly you clean, the more money you'll save.

Vacuum the filter and save a little.

First pull the plug. Then take off the front panel, and carefully remove the filter. You can vacuum it while it's still in place, but it's easier to clean the filter well if you remove it first.

Wash the filter and save a little more.

Your owner's manual will tell you whether the filter in your air conditioner is the kind that can be washed and reused. If it is, you can get the filter even cleaner by first vacuuming it, and then hand washing it in warm water and a gentle detergent. The type of soap recommended for washing woolens is best suited to this job.

More ways to save.

The idea of using timers on air conditioners is catching on. You can plug your window unit into an automatic timer made especially for air conditioners. It works just like the kind of timer you'd use to turn your lights on automatically when you're away from home. You can set the timer so that your air conditioner comes on an hour or so before you get home from work on a hot summer day. That way your house will be comfortable when you arrive, but you'll be using less electricity. And your air conditioner won't be running all day long.

There's one last thing you should remember about air conditioners, especially if you're thinking about buying a new one.

Air conditioner efficiency varies from model to model, depending on what we call the Energy Efficiency Ratio, or EER. The higher the EER, the more cooling you get for your electric dollar, year after year. It's easy to figure out the EER. Attached to every air conditioner is a metal plate showing that machine's watts and BTU's. To get the EER, just divide the watts into the BTU's. We recommend an EER of 8 or more.

The more efficiently you use energy, the less energy you waste, and the more money you save. And an efficient air conditioner can save you plenty.

Save on central air.

If you've got central air conditioning in your home, there are several steps you can take to keep your central air system running efficiently. Remember to clean or replace your furnace filters regularly. Clear away any debris from around the outdoor unit. And keep grass and shrubs trimmed back to 12 inches away from any working parts.

A call for help may help you save.

If you've had your air conditioner for several years and have never cleaned it before, it could take a qualified serviceman to perform the kind of maintenance and repairs that may be necessary. In an older unit the condenser coil, refrigerant charge, and motor parts may need expert attention.

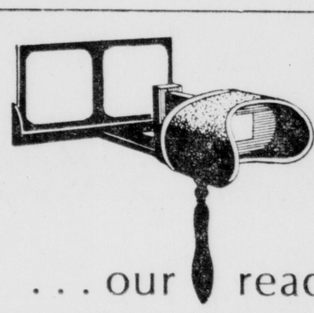
Family of colonial Job endured trials of battle



Backward Glance

"The following story was brought to light as a result of tracing my paternal ancestors so I might become a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution," writes Mrs. V. Pauline Routson, Palatine. She has since belonged to four D.A.R. chapters — in Ohio, Connecticut and Washington and now the Eli Skinner Chapter in Arlington Heights.

In the spring of 1776, Job Phillis, my great-great-great-great-grandfather, left his wife and children in Wyoming, Pa., to enlist in the Revolutionary Army. He served as a ranger on the western frontier in the company commanded by Capt. Samuel Ransom and Lt. Simon Spalding.

Later he joined a regiment under General Washington, commanded by Co. John Durkee and Maj. Sumner. He fought in the battles at Millstone, Boundbrook, Elizabethtown, Germantown and Mud Islands. He wintered at Valley Forge in 1777-78. From there he went to Lancaster, Pa., then back to the town of Wyoming.

WHEN THE "Massacre of Wyoming" occurred, Job's wife and children, along with others, fled through the wilderness to find their husbands. As they fled, a cow belonging to the family followed and caused great alarm lest she should betray their route to the Indians. As it turned out, the cow saved their lives by furnishing them with milk when they could find no other food.

As the family approached the army lines, Job's wife accidentally fell in with her husband. His company had found the town of Wyoming destroyed by the Indians and was marching on to do guard duty on the Delaware River.

Job was on active duty. He could only stop for a moment, but he gave his wife all the money he had at the time — one dollar. That evening, he was granted leave to see her again.

A while later, Job obtained a furlough so he might get his family settled and provide for their needs. He took them to Vermont, where he began building a log cabin as shelter for the winter. The following spring, after he had planed a small crop, but before the cabin was completed, he was called to rejoin the army.

WHEN JOB WAS finally discharged from army service, he moved his family to Cooperstown, N.Y.; later by way of the Susquehanna River, to Pennsylvania; and then on to the southern part of Ohio.

Job died in Athens County, Ohio, at the age of 93.

Three awarded $1,000 scholarships

Local winners of the $1,000 scholarships are: Caryn L. Jacobs, Rolling Meadows High School, scholarship sponsored by the International Business Machines Corp.; Gary E. Kay, Maine East High School, sponsored by Nalco Chemical Co.; Russell L. Steinweg, Maine East High School, sponsored by Lockheed Leadership Fund.

The students are among 1,000 national winners and were among 14,000 student finalists competing for the awards. In making the awards, the scholarship selection committee considered the student's academic record, extracurricular attainments, two sets of aptitude test scores, biographical statements and the recommendation of the high school principal.

The scholarships are one-time, nonrenewable awards and will be paid to the winners next fall after they enroll in the colleges or universities of their choice. The majority of the scholarships are underwritten by corporations, foundations and business organizations.

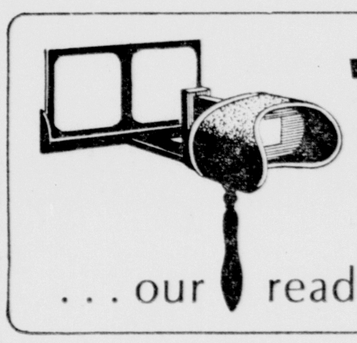
Family of colonial Job endured trials of battle



Backward Glance

. . . our readers remember

"The following story was brought to light as a result of tracing my paternal ancestors so I might become a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution," writes Mrs. V. Pauline Routson, Palatine. She has since belonged to four D.A.R. chapters — in Ohio, Connecticut and Washington and now the Eli Skinner Chapter in Arlington Heights.

In the spring of 1776, Job Phillis, my great-great-great-great-grandfather, left his wife and children in Wyoming, Pa., to enlist in the Revolutionary Army. He served as a ranger on the western frontier in the company commanded by Capt. Samuel Ransom and Lt. Simon Spalding.

Later he joined a regiment under General Washington, commanded by Co. John Durkee and Maj. Sumner. He fought in the battles at Millstone, Boundbrook, Elizabethtown, Germantown and Mud Islands. He wintered at Valley Forge in 1777-78. From there he went to Lancaster, Pa., then back to the town of Wyoming.

WHEN THE "Massacre of Wyoming" occurred, Job's wife and children, along with others, fled through the wilderness to find their husbands. As they fled, a cow belonging to the family followed and caused great alarm lest she should betray their route to the Indians. As it turned out, the cow saved their lives by furnishing them with milk when they could find no other food.

As the family approached the army lines, Job's wife accidentally fell in with her husband. His company had found the town of Wyoming destroyed by the Indians and was marching on to do guard duty on the Delaware River.

Job was on active duty. He could only stop for a moment, but he gave his wife all the money he had at the time — one dollar. That evening, he was granted leave to see her again.

A while later, Job obtained a furlough so he might get his family settled and provide for their needs. He took them to Vermont, where he began building a log cabin as shelter for the winter. The following spring, after he had planed a small crop, but before the cabin was completed, he was called to rejoin the army.

WHEN JOB WAS finally discharged from army service, he moved his family to Cooperstown, N.Y.; later by way of the Susquehanna River, to Pennsylvania; and then on to the southern part of Ohio.

Job died in Athens County, Ohio, at the age of 93.

Muriel Cornelius knows her stuff: selling cars

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

"Oh, no! not a lady car salesman!" Some customers admit to this reaction when they first spot Muriel Cornelius, lone saleswoman at Lattof Motor Sales Co. in Arlington Heights. But not for long.

Once Miss Cornelius turns on her smile and starts talking, car lookers become buyers and allies, many directing potential customers to her. Others become friends.

"I treat people the way I'd like to be treated. I try to make them feel at home, to fulfill their needs by putting the right people in the right car at the right price," Muriel explained her selling tenet. And she is available for followups if customers wish.

MURIEL DOESN'T have her head in the clouds. She expects just about anyone out car hunting to "horse-trade," as she puts it. She believes her company's product sells itself, so she sells herself and her dealership.

"I find it easy to sell the reputation of this dealership. Lattof is not a typical automobile agency. Local family men work here, and they help customers . . . and one another," she said.

A veteran of some 20 years in advertising and creative sales, Muriel has sold automobiles 2½ years, about a year of that time at Lattof.

The lone woman on a sales staff of 15, she does the same work as the men. She sells new and used cars and trucks. She cleans up vehicles for delivery, delivers them. And the lady knows her product.

THOUGH SHE thinks it unnecessary to understand mechanics in order to sell cars and trucks, Muriel knows motors. She learned about mechanics from an uncle and the workmen who repaired motors in his electric motor repair shop. This expertise earns her respect from male shoppers and co-workers.

When an irate male telephoned Lattof several times to protest a woman working in this traditional male field, fellow salesmen defended her.

"She's well qualified. She knows more about cars than some of the salesmen," said one salesman who finally discouraged the crank caller.

Generally Muriel meets up with little resentment because she is a woman, she says. She works an open floor. There is no strict up-system to create undue competition among the sales force. And for that occasional male shopper who may be put off by a woman, she just bows out.

AS WITH ANY job she's had, Muriel is in car selling to do the best she can. Personal achievement is her goal. A big bugaboo for women in male arenas, she thinks, is the stereotyped "libber" who is out to prove she's better than men. "I don't compete with men, just with myself." Muriel claims this attitude makes a difference. If her record counts, she is right.

A lifelong Chicago resident who now calls Arlington Heights her home, Miss Cornelius started her career as a secretary in the claim department of an insurance company. With on-the-job experience she became an insurance adjuster, working in automobile and other accident claims, workmen compensation and product liability and others.

After four years of that, she wanted new experiences and joined an advertising agency where she typed radio and TV commercials, later moving on to another ad firm where she hired and trained personnel to do in-depth market surveys. Market research required that she travel.

"THE PEOPLE-CONTACT gave me a good concept of how to approach people," she said.

Tiring of travel, Muriel next became sales promotion representative, then division sales "rep" for a nationally known washing machine company. "I found I liked challenge, competitive work and the opportunity to make more salary." On the side, Muriel also has sold ad specialties and written sales contest incentive programs among other jobs.

She turned to automobile selling in 1971, hoping to earn more salary to pay off some medical bills. She started at Elmwood Park Service Chevrolet where she sold 28 cars her first month there.

"I made $1,800 that first month, selling only one or two fewer cars than their top salesman," she proudly recalled. "And I got no special favors," she added.

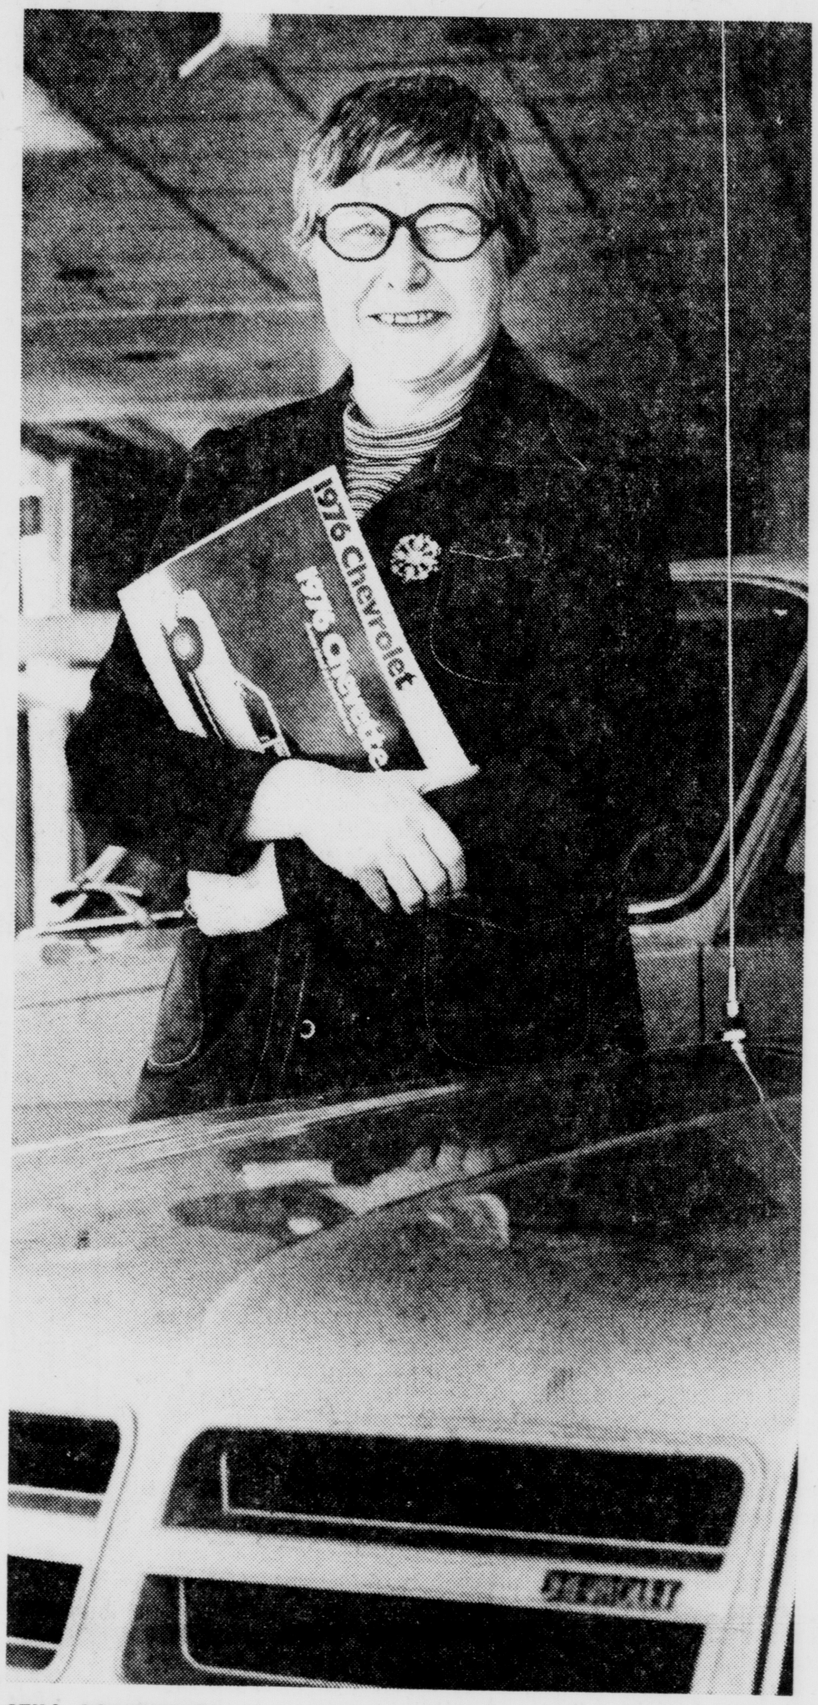
WHEN FACTORY orders fell behind at the agency, Muriel craved more action and switched to Carol Buick in Evanston where she averaged 14-22 sales, earning about $1,200 each month. She also worked at Mack Cadillac in Mount Prospect before coming to Lattof where she expects to stay.

"I've found my happy home at Lattof," she confided contentedly. "People in this area are so appreciative, delightful to work with. I get letters, little gifts from my clients. They are fantastic!"

Muriel admits she has little time outside her job, but she plays golf, backs the Cubs, likes to travel. She spent a favorite vacation on a dude ranch in Wyoming and hopes to return.

BUT SHOULD anyone shopping for a car be approached by a saleswoman with a warm smile, friendly blue eyes and short cropped hair, that customer will find Muriel doing what she likes best: pleasing people.

"My greatest job satisfaction is customer appreciation and I think I may have inherited my love of selling from my grandfather who owned a candy company on Chicago's north side," Muriel ventured.



STILL SOMETHING of a rarity in her field, automobile sales, Muriel Cornelius so far has found her sex no handicap. She's the lone woman on a sales staff of 15 at Lattof Chevrolet, Arlington Heights.

JAMAICA SHORTS, left, are favorites of all women of all ages because of their flattering length. At right, clam diggers, popular in 1950s, are back in 1976. They get their name because clammers rolled up their pants to that length. (Glamour Magazine)

In pants it's the cut that counts

by ELLIE GROSSMAN

All right, Angie Dickinson, en garde.

We're well aware that designers had your legs in mind when they knocked over a horn of plenty of pants and shorts this spring and summer.

And, further, that the majority of us women were given jodhpurs thighs, sagging buttocks and knotty calves just to make you look good in contrast.

Well, the experts have come together to tell us which body to stick in which pant to give you a run for your money. Or a sprint, at least.

Of course, they do bear out the scientific law which states that for every three experts in attendance, at least four different opinions arise.

"THE NEW thing in pants for spring and summer is short shorts, jamaicas which hit mid-thigh, and bermudas which hit just above the top of the knee," says Jean Guilder, fashion director of Glamour magazine.

"Obviously," she continues, "what would be a bermuda short on one person would be a jamaica on another. It all has to do with proportion. The length of the pant and where it hits you is determined by the length of your leg in proportion to your body."

The width of your body, she says, determines the cut of the pant.

"FULL LEG pants help to comouflage big hips, as do big tops," she says, "but remember — if you have heavy thighs and big hips, they're going to show no matter what you wear. Just don't accentuate them by wearing pants that are too tight and close to the body."

On short legs, she says, "Jamaica shorts could be ungainly, so you might stick with pants that hit you below the knee, such as clam diggers. Or wear short shorts.

"If you're a woman with big hips and skinny legs and your legs are nice, they'll look good in pedal pushers which are cuffed and reach below the knee."

You are, after all, the best judge of how you look in pants, and Ms. Guilder urges aggressive retrospection. "Look in a rear view mirror," she says. "At best, it's a very good incentive to lose a couple of inches."

She also cautions women to be mindful of the rule of thumb regarding proper shoe height.

"The shorter the pant, the flatter the heel of the shoe you should wear," she says. "Espadrilles are fine with pedal pushers and clam diggers but when you get into above-the-knee pants and short shorts, they tend to make you look a little 'tootsie.' "

If "tootsie" as an adjective is puzzling to you, think of it as a noun and you'll have the picture.

NANCY MARCANTONIO, fashion director of Seventeen magazine, points out that "wherever the line of the pants stops, that's what it accentuates.

"For example, if you have big calves, don't wear pedal pushers because the pants leg stops at the calf. The same applies to big thighs and jamaicia shorts," and knobby knees and bermudas.

Knees notwithstanding, Marilyn Kirschner, a fashion editor at Harper's Bazaar, believes that bermuda shorts look well on just about everyone.

"So do walking shorts which are skirt length, except if you have ugly calves," she says.

"CLAM DIGGERS demand pretty shapely legs," she continues, "and a short woman should not wear pedal pushers or things that go below the knee. You have to be tall for pedal pushers. If you're short, wear regular ankle length pants, shorts or bermudas."

And if your legs lack any charm whatsoever, she says, "don't wear shorts at all."

Back, now, to Jean Guilder for the final word. "The ideal is to have marvelous, long legs, but if you don't, you might stick with a pant that hits you mid-thigh."

Except, of course, if you're short, or your thighs are heavy, or. . .

Has wife any claim to husband's property?

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

After five years of repeated misunderstandings and quarrels we've decided to call it quits. Now my husband insists that he file the suit and has met with his lawyer.

I'm worried about financial responsibilities after the divorce. My husband is a member of an underpaid profession and we have had to live on a small salary with only the use of a house, not ours.

We have five children, all under age. I'm not employed, nor do I have any special skills. Besides, I will have custody and care of the children.

My husband has some property of his own, but I was told that I would have no claim to it and that I could only get alimony and support based on what he earns. We'll need a place to live. Would a court ask him to give us the house he owns? Would like to know my rights. —G.U.

Dear G.U.

• If the property is not in joint tenancy, then you would not have any claim to any part of it.

The impression that a wife is automatically entitled to share in her husband's property when the marriage is dissolved is misleading. However, the information you received is not wholly incorrect. There is some confusion in the matrimonial law area regarding whether one spouse has any legal interest in or claim to the separate property of the other in a divorce action.

• Illinois is known as an 'alimony" state in which a wife is entitled to support from her husband. (It is unlike child support which a father must, by law, pay.)

For the wife to be entitled to a share in the husband's property at the time of the divorce she must prove that she has an "equitable interest" in it, such as:

• If the property held by the husband had been obtained by the joint efforts of both.

• Or, if by the money of both.

• If the husband received the wife's money and he invested it in the real estate in question to which he holds title.

• Or if her earnings or savings have gone into this possession and he bought the real estate with it.

• Another example is if the wife has made practically all the payments.

Please note, however, that services normally expected and given by wife to husband do not mean "payment" in the sense that it is being applied here. But if the wife has contributed substantially to the improvement of the house, that would also be considered an "equitable interest." An equitable interest gives the wife the right in a divorce action to ask the court to convey that property to her.

• In addition to "equitable interest" it's possible that the court would transfer the house to her if she needed it for the children and for herself if it can be shown that a hardship would be created without it.

This information is not a substitute for representation by a lawyer. I believe your husband wishes to file the suit because it would put him in a more favorable light with the organization for whom he now works. There's nothing wrong with that, if you have counsel to represent you and advise you accordingly. Much expensive litigation can be prevented by working out problems between you and your husband when both of you are represented by your respective attorneys.

Muriel Cornelius knows her stuff: selling cars

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

"Oh, no! not a lady car salesman!"

Some customers admit to this reaction when they first spot Muriel Cornelius, lone saleswoman at Lattof Motor Sales Co. in Arlington Heights. But not for long.

Once Miss Cornelius turns on her smile and starts talking, car lookers become buyers and allies, many directing potential customers to her. Others become friends.

"I treat people the way I'd like to be treated. I try to make them feel at home, to fulfill their needs by putting the right people in the right car at the right price," Muriel explained her selling tenet. And she is available for followups if customers wish.

MURIEL DOESN'T have her head in the clouds. She expects just about anyone out car hunting to "horse-trade," as she puts it. She believes her company's product sells itself, so she sells herself and her dealership.

"I find it easy to sell the reputation of this dealership. Lattof is not a typical automobile agency. Local family men work here, and they help customers . . . and one another," she said.

A veteran of some 20 years in advertising and creative sales, Muriel has sold automobiles 2½ years, about a year of that time at Lattof.

The lone woman on a sales staff of 15, she does the same work as the men. She sells new and used cars and trucks. She cleans up vehicles for delivery, delivers them. And the lady knows her product.

THOUGH SHE thinks it unnecessary to understand mechanics in order to sell cars and trucks, Muriel knows motors. She learned about mechanics from an uncle and the workmen who repaired motors in his electric motor repair shop. This expertise earns her respect from male shoppers and co-workers.

When an irate male telephoned Lattof several times to protest a woman working in this traditional male field, fellow salesmen defended her.

"She's well qualified. She knows more about cars than some of the salesmen," said one salesman who finally discouraged the crank caller.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Fat's what you need to lose, not water

I am a 64 year-old woman, 5 feet 4 and weigh 125 pounds. In the last year I lost 35 pounds as my doctor wanted. I feel wonderful. Now what I want to know is can I take one water pill every day or every other day for there is no end to my worrying about putting the weight back on that I have already lost? Please tell me what to do.

The weight you have lost was not water, it was fat. There seems to be a widespread lack of understanding that what doctors usually want you to lose is fat not just pounds on the scales. Pounds can be anything from an over-distended digestive tract to an accumulation of water. Your body is normally half water and dehydrating yourself to get a favorable reading on the scales is useless.

Those water pills don't elminate fat. They help to flush out the water that accumulates as the fat is used. That means taking water pills won't prevent you from putting your fat back on. There are only two things that will help you prevent regaining your fat; maintaining a suitable level of physical activity to use all of the calories you eat and restricting your calories in a well-balanced diet.

Remember, the amount of fat you accumulate is like the balance in your checking account. If you take in more calories than you spend, the balance is going to increase and that balance is your fat deposit. Those who want more information on obesity can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-8, Obesity, General Principles of Prevention. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publication, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I am 58 year old and have high blood pressure. I have been going to the doctor for four or five years, but my blood pressure is always too high. I am on a no salt, low-fat diet, plus Lasix and Inderal. I also drink several beers a day plus some liquor. Do you think that is what is causing it? I feel fine and work every day except I am awfully highstrung. I seem to get mad easily. Please let me know.

The truth is we do not know the cause of high blood pressure in most cases. Limiting salt intake does seem to help some individuals. If there is any evidence of excess fat underneath your skin around the middle portion of your body, elimination of such fat deposits often helps lower blood pressure.

Alcoholic beverages in themselves do not cause high blood pressure. However, to the extent that they contribute to obesity or excess body fat, they then become part of the problem.

Every person who has high blood pressure should have a complete medical exmination, including study of the functions of the kidneys to ascertain insofar as possible the causes of high blood pressure. Then treatment usually consists of using various medicines that help to lower the pressure by relaxing the small arteries in the body. The amount of these medicines, if any, that a person needs often depends on how successful they are in eliminating excess body fat.

Because you note that you are highstrung, I would recommend eliminating all stimulants. Specifically coffee, tea and cola drinks.

Slow cooking great for those who work

Crockery cooking has been the "in" thing for some time now and with excellent reason for the many who hold full-time jobs. We were invited to share Phyllis Balk's effort with a well-marbled rump roast. It turned out beautifully, and I was quick to insist on her recipe.

After salting and peppering and then rolling the six-pound roast in three tablespoons of flour, she browned it in one tablespoon of oil. Into the crock pot it went, along with a large sliced onion, two cloves of minced garlic, two peeled carrots cut up into chunks, two bay leaves, three-fourths of a pound of mushrooms, one-half teaspoon of thyme, two tablespoons of tomato paste, two beef bouillon cubes, one cup of red wine and two cups of water. It cooked on low for 12 hours.

Before serving, Phyllis strained the gravy and thickened it. It made six hearty servings.

Dear Dorothy: We are having a problem with a red dogwood. It has bloomed only once — with three blossoms — the spring after it was planted. Do you know what might be wrong? — Mrs. Ernest Keen

There are three possibilities: One, it might not be getting sufficient light. Two, it might be competing for nutrients from other plants nearby. Three, it may need some fertilizer. You can use regular lawn fertilizer or one specifically for dogwoods.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way to remove some scratch marks from a pair of good patent leather slippers? These shoes are in good shape. — Mrs. Pansy Carpenter

Get any good paste shoe polish — the same color as the shoes. Rub it on, count to 10, then rub off — and polish. The better shoe polishes have enough dye in them to do the job.

Ford family to entertain moms, daughters at party

"Showers of Blessing" is the theme of this year's mother-daughter dessert buffet at Bethel Lutheran Church, Palatine, to be held Friday at 7 p.m. Highlight of the evening is a music and gospel program by the James Ford family of Huntley, Ill.

The family presents a variety of music, from new material to the old Christian favorites, backed up by a musical sound track. The only family member who plays an instrument is son Elvis, 13, who occasionally accompanies on a trombone. The other Fords are the parents, James and Mary, and son Eddie, 11.

Their musical ministry began 2½ years ago when they purchased a motor home and set out on a course that has taken them over 30,000 miles. The boys do not attend public school but are taught by their mother through the Home Study Institute in Washington, D.C.

THE FORDS have also organized and sponsor a youth group called Teens for Jesus.

In addition to their appearance at Bethel Lutheran Church Friday evening, there will be an impromptu skit by the younger children in attendance and mother-daughter awards will be given.

All interested women in the area are welcome, along with their children. Tickets are available at the door for 50 cents each. In addition, each family group is asked to bring a dessert, cut and ready to serve.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Fat's what you need to lose, not water

I am a 64 year-old woman, 5 feet 4 and weigh 125 pounds. In the last year I lost 35 pounds as my doctor wanted. I feel wonderful. Now what I want to know is can I take one water pill every day or every other day for there is no end to my worrying about putting the weight back on that I have already lost? Please tell me what to do.

The weight you have lost was not water, it was fat. There seems to be a widespread lack of understanding that what doctors usually want you to lose is fat not just pounds on the scales. Pounds can be anything from an over-distended digestive tract to an accumulation of water. Your body is normally half water and dehydrating yourself to get a favorable reading on the scales is useless.

Those water pills don't elminate fat. They help to flush out the water that accumulates as the fat is used. That means taking water pills won't prevent you from putting your fat back on. There are only two things that will help you prevent regaining your fat; maintaining a suitable level of physical activity to use all of the calories you eat and restricting your calories in a well-balanced diet.

Remember, the amount of fat you accumulate is like the balance in your checking account. If you take in more calories than you spend, the balance is going to increase and that balance is your fat deposit. Those who want more information on obesity can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-8, Obesity, General Principles of Prevention. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publication, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I am 58 year old and have high blood pressure. I have been going to the doctor for four or five years, but my blood pressure is always too high. I am on a no salt, low-fat diet, plus Lasix and Inderal. I also drink several beers a day plus some liquor. Do you think that is what is causing it? I feel fine and work every day except I am awfully highstrung. I seem to get mad easily. Please let me know.

The truth is we do not know the cause of high blood pressure in most cases. Limiting salt intake does seem to help some individuals. If there is any evidence of excess fat underneath your skin around the middle portion of your body, elimination of such fat deposits often helps lower blood pressure.

Alcoholic beverages in themselves do not cause high blood pressure. However, to the extent that they contribute to obesity or excess body fat, they then become part of the problem.

Every person who has high blood pressure should have a complete medical exmination, including study of the functions of the kidneys to ascertain insofar as possible the causes of high blood pressure. Then treatment usually consists of using various medicines that help to lower the pressure by relaxing the small arteries in the body. The amount of these medicines, if any, that a person needs often depends on how successful they are in eliminating excess body fat.

Because you note that you are highstrung, I would recommend eliminating all stimulants. Specifically coffee, tea and cola drinks.

Slow cooking great for those who work

Crockery cooking has been the "in" thing for some time now and with excellent reason for the many who hold full-time jobs. We were invited to share Phyllis Balk's effort with a well-marbled rump roast. It turned out beautifully, and I was quick to insist on her recipe.

After salting and peppering and then rolling the six-pound roast in three tablespoons of flour, she browned it in one tablespoon of oil. Into the crock pot it went, along with a large sliced onion, two cloves of minced garlic, two peeled carrots cut up into chunks, two bay leaves, three-fourths of a pound of mushrooms, one-half teaspoon of thyme, two tablespoons of tomato paste, two beef bouillon cubes, one cup of red wine and two cups of water. It cooked on low for 12 hours.

Before serving, Phyllis strained the gravy and thickened it. It made six hearty servings.

Dear Dorothy: We are having a problem with a red dogwood. It has bloomed only once — with three blossoms — the spring after it was planted. Do you know what might be wrong? — Mrs. Ernest Keen

There are three possibilities: One, it might not be getting sufficient light. Two, it might be competing for nutrients from other plants nearby. Three, it may need some fertilizer. You can use regular lawn fertilizer or one specifically for dogwoods.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way to remove some scratch marks from a pair of good patent leather slippers? These shoes are in good shape. — Mrs. Pansy Carpenter

Get any good paste shoe polish — the same color as the shoes. Rub it on, count to 10, then rub off — and polish. The better shoe polishes have enough dye in them to do the job.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Ford family to entertain moms, daughters at party

"Showers of Blessing" is the theme of this year's mother-daughter dessert buffet at Bethel Lutheran Church, Palatine, to be held Friday at 7 p.m. Highlight of the evening is a music and gospel program by the James Ford family of Huntley, Ill.

The family presents a variety of music, from new material to the old Christian favorites, backed up by a musical sound track. The only family member who plays an instrument is son Elvis, 13, who occasionally accompanies on a trombone. The other Fords are the parents, James and Mary, and son Eddie, 11.

Their musical ministry began 2½ years ago when they purchased a motor home and set out on a course that has taken them over 30,000 miles. The boys do not attend public school but are taught by their mother through the Home Study Institute in Washington, D.C.

THE FORDS have also organized and sponsor a youth group called Teens for Jesus.

In addition to their appearance at Bethel Lutheran Church Friday evening, there will be an impromptu skit by the younger children in attendance and mother-daughter awards will be given.

All interested women in the area are welcome, along with their children. Tickets are available at the door for 50 cents each. In addition, each family group is asked to bring a dessert, cut and ready to serve.

Look Younger For Springtime

Spring is the season when your spirits lift as you look forward to pleasant weather after a long, dreary winter. But springtime, with its sudden wind gusts and rapid changes of temperature can be hard on your skin, drying it so you can look older than you'd like. You can look older than necessary as early as your twenties, you know. Nature's own supply of moisture and oil has begun to slow down by then, so your skin becomes dryer and its radiant youthful appearance may start to slip away.

The past winter probably hasn't helped either. Look what you've put your skin through! You've gone between icy outdoor weather and drying indoor heat over and over again. That's like taking your face through all the climates of the world day after day. An honest look in your mirror will show you what winter has done to your skin.

Happily, you can begin to look your youngest for springtime almost before the first crocuses bloom. Join the younger-looking women of all ages from many parts of the world who share the secret of a remarkable beauty fluid that helps every woman look her youngest.

This unique beauty fluid, discovered by beauty connoisseurs, is known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. The remarkable fluid works with nature in a mysterious way to ease away skin dryness so you can look just as young as you can.

Oil of Olay acts like your own natural moisture to work on dryness. Pure moisture and tropical oils penetrate your skin's surface deeply and astonishingly quickly, with never a greasy afterfeel. You'll see your skin grow softer and smoother almost the moment you soothe on the skin-loving liquid.

Oil of Olay, faithfully every morning, under makeup or to give your skin a moist environment. Again, faithfully, every night.

You'll find Oil of Olay at your drugstore. You may get the beautiful feeling that your skin is living in an ideal moisty, misty eternal spring.

Spring Beauty Secret

As the weather improves, you'll be more on the go. Be sure that Oil of Olay® travels with you everywhere, in your purse or suitcase.

But springtime, with its sudden wind gusts and rapid changes of temperature can be hard on your skin, drying it so you can look older than you'd like. You can look older than necessary as early as your twenties, you know. Nature's own supply of moisture and oil has begun to slow down by then, so your skin becomes dryer and its radiant youthful appearance may start to slip away.

The past winter probably hasn't helped either. Look what you've put your skin through! You've gone between icy outdoor weather and drying indoor heat over and over again. That's like taking your face through all the climates of the world day after day. An honest look in your mirror will show you what winter has done to your skin.

Happily, you can begin to look your youngest for springtime almost before the first crocuses bloom. Join the younger-looking women of all ages from many parts of the world who share the secret of a remarkable beauty fluid that helps every woman look her youngest.

This unique beauty fluid, discovered by beauty connoisseurs, is known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. The remarkable fluid works with nature in a mysterious way to ease away skin dryness so you can look just as young as you can.

Oil of Olay acts like your own natural moisture to work on dryness. Pure moisture and tropical oils penetrate your skin's surface deeply and astonishingly quickly, with never a greasy afterfeel. You'll see your skin grow softer and smoother almost the moment you soothe on the skin-loving liquid.

Oil of Olay, faithfully every morning, under makeup or to give your skin a moist environment. Again, faithfully, every night.

You'll find Oil of Olay at your drugstore. You may get the beautiful feeling that your skin is living in an ideal moisty, misty eternal spring.

Spring Beauty Secret

As the weather improves, you'll be more on the go. Be sure that Oil of Olay® travels with you everywhere, in your purse or suitcase.
